Lancaster Farming

Vol. 44 No. 35 | Four Sections | Lancaster Farming, Saturday, July 3, 1999 | $31.00 Per Year | 60¢ Per Copy

Field work for farmers in the Northeast has progressed on schedule as the weather provided excellent working conditions. Even with some relief from drought conditions as rain [illegible] areas, the Pennsylvania Ag Statistics Service reported 37 percent of the soil moisture rated very short, 47 percent short, and 16 percent adequate. Elsewhere in this issue Gov. Tom Ridge, added 12 new counties to the drought watch he initiated several weeks ago to put all but the Northwest part of the state on voluntary water conservation alert. Barley harvest was nearly completed this week, and pasture conditions declined due to the warm, dry weather. The corn crop condition remained variable with height across the area set at 20 inches. Soybeans had emerged and looked mostly fair to good. Many farmers cut hay for haylage or to make quality hay because of the good drying conditions. As farmers look for rain, they report that they are hauling manure, and spreading fertilizers on harvested fields. In the photo, Shawn Burkholder in an Amos Eby Co. truck was spreading lime Monday afternoon on John Stoltzfus' farm at the corner of Oak Hill and Black Horse Roads just south of Paradise. A slight breeze and the backlight from the sun provide a nice soft picture composition for the farm in the background. *Photo by Everett Newswanger, editor.

Dairy Options Pilot Program Design Offers Farmers Opportunity To Set Floor Price

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — A group of 52 dairy farmers met in Lancaster at the Farm and Home Center this spring for the second meeting in a series of meetings that kicked off the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Risk Management Agency administered $10 million Dairy Options Pilot Program (DOPP).

The nationwide program is designed to help dairy farmers transition completely away from federal government price support programs.

Pennsylvania was selected as the first state to participate. Nationally the goal was to include 42 counties in seven states, broken down to six counties per selected state.

The goal was to have 100 participants per county, but the participation has been less. However, that fact doesn't affect the program or those who have elected to participate.

(If there would have been more than a 100 applications, a lottery would have been held to determine who could participate.)

The written objective of the program is, "To ascertain whether 'put' options can provide dairy producers with reasonable protection from price risk," according to USDA officials.

As with other agencies and divisions of the USDA, the USDA Risk Management Agency is a renamed agency with additional responsibilities. It had been the agency that handled the federal crop insurance program, and it still deals with crop insurance.

According to the agency's Director Larry Atkinson, the agency has expanded its purview in order to better serve in stabilizing United States agriculture during the transition, especially the dairy industry.

Crop insurance and commodity trading tools have long been used by that grain production sector to protect against price drops, especially during bumper crop years.

But there has been little to no use of such protections by the dairy industry, and there is no federal milk price insurance program. It wasn't until 1993 that dairy futures began being offered as trading contracts.

While other livestock and commodity production sectors are also being phased out from federal support pricing, the dairy industry appears ripe for focusing initial efforts by the USDA in preparing the agricultural production industry for the scheduled removal of a commodity price safety net.

After this year, there are to be no more federal price supports.

There are several reasons for selecting the dairy industry.

The poultry industry has largely become integrated and dependent upon contractual relationships between producers and processors and feed manufacturers. Production costs and margins seem fairly well controlled through the integration.

The swine industry has been on track toward a similar integrated structure, especially with last fall through this year swine prices to independent producers ridiculously below the cost of production.

The dairy industry is still described as largely peopled by independent producers, although more and more dairy industry decision-makers have expressed confidence that the majority of it too is headed toward contractual production, or at least some form of integration — which perhaps could be best described as a type of private quota system.

The fate for independent dairy producers is not clear, however,

This is the first in a series reporting on the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Risk Management Agency administered $10 million Dairy Options Pilot Program (DOPP).

This first report is on the initial meeting and explanation of the program as presented in Lancaster County. All presentations made during the introductory meeting series were to have been structured the same, with different presenters representing different agencies depending upon the location.

Two articles to follow, by Lancaster Farming correspondent Sandra Bradley, of Grove City, reports on how well the program has been received, and on how participants have fared using it, especially in light of the unexpected drop in BFP earlier this year.

PDA Presents Ag Research Symposium II

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Publicly sponsored, ongoing agricultural research administered through the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture protects and ensures the well-being of the state's agricultural industry, and holds the promise for expanding opportunities for entreprenuerialism.

That notion was reinforced through the second annual PDA Agricultural Research Symposium, recently held in a meeting room in the East Wing of the Main Capital Building in Harrisburg.

With a backdrop banner that proclaimed, "Products for the Planet," state secretary of Agriculture Samuel E. Hayes Jr. stood behind a podium bearing the seal of Pennsylvania, and welcomed the audience, making note of the local FFA chapter members in attendance, as well as officials.

Hayes has been especially aggressive in several areas relating to agricultural and economic well-being — education, marketing, research, product development,

CATTLE: Compared to last week's closing prices, slaughter steers and heifers closed .50-1.00 lower. Prices were significantly lower for the second week in a row on the heels of another USDA inventory report. This week it was the hogs and pigs report, instead of the cattle-on-feed, that was bearish enough to cause hog markets to plummet and fat cattle prices to continue their decline. Retailers also have their meatcases packed for the upcoming holiday weekend, which pulled demand out from under the dressed beef market. This, along with seasonal trends, has officially put the cattle market in a summer slump. Western feeders took 2.00 less for their cattle at 64.00 and 101.00-102.00. Local Holstein steers held their ground fairly well and closed mostly steady to only weak. Slaughter cow prices ended .50-1.50 higher with good demand as many auctions further south are closed for the 4th of July. The slaughter bulls closed .50-1.00 lower with late-week losses. Supply included 51 percent slaughter steers, 5 percent slaughter heifers, 29 percent slaughter cows, 4 percent slaughter bulls, with the balance made up of feeder cattle.

NE Chicken Parts 1&2

ATLANTA, GA.

NORTHEAST BROILER/FRYER PARTS - PART I FEDERAL-STATE

Trucklot buying interest was mixed with traders cautious as they attempted to work off heavy inventories, yet have enough product to cover anticipated holiday needs. Offerings remained in good balance to cover most current trade requirements. Movement into retail and distributive channels was usually reported as not up to expectations. The market tone was unsettled and cautious.

PRICES PAID PER POUND, ICE PACKED AND CO2 PACKED BROILER/FRYER PARTS, DELIVERED TO FIRST RECEIVERS IN POOL TRUCKLOT AND TRUCKLOT QUANTITIES.

ITEM CURRENT NEGOTIATED TRADING*

BREAST - B/S 150-155 BREAST - WITH RIBS 67-68 BREAST - LINE RUN 67 LEGS 30-31 LEG QUARTERS (BULK) 23-24 DRUMSTICKS 30-31 THIGHS 17-18 WINGS (WHOLE) 44-45 BACKS AND NECKS (STRIPPED) 10-12 LIVERS (5 POUND TUBS) 15-20 GIZZARDS (HEARTS) 35

INCLUDES NEW YORK CITY METROPOLITAN AREA, NORTHERN NEW JERSEY, MASSACHUSETTS, CONNECTICUT, RHODE ISLAND, AND PENNSYLVANIA (NORTHEAST OF HARRISBURG). * TODAY'S NEGOTIATED SALES AS OF 11:30 A.M.

Effective July 1, breast tenderloins and boneless skinless thigh meat will be included in the daily Northeast Broiler/Fryer Parts report and on the Friday weekly weighted average price report. Expansion of this report is in response to changes in marketing of young chickens parts and meat items.

NY Phia Frozen Eggs

ATLANTA, GA.

EASTERN REGION FROZEN EGGS, JUNE 25, 1999. FEDERAL-STATE

All prices were lower, and the majority of trading occurred at the high side of the stated ranges for all categories. The market tone was weak, and yolk products were in the weakest position. Demand continued light to moderate. Liquid and frozen eggs (ingredients included) processed under federal inspection in the Eastern region for the week ending June 19, 1999 were unchanged from last week, and 5% more than the same week last year. Shell egg supplies were mostly ample.

Delmarva Broiler

ATLANTA, GA.
JUNE 30, 1999
DELMARVA BROILER/FRYER MARKET. FEDERAL-STATE

Movement of ready-to-cook whole birds was noted as no better than fair and typical for the middle of the week. Seller offerings varied in both volume and size, but were readily available on the heavier sizes. Live supplies were at least adequate with weights ranging desirable to heavy. Processing schedules were moderately heavy. Less than trucklot asking prices were unchanged at 56 to 68 cents. Trade sentiment was cautiously steady. In the parts complex, all items were at least adequate. Leg items were adequate and were clearing satisfactorily. Wings and bone-in breast were readily available.

PRO-LIX LIQUID FEED

In the dairy business, income over feed cost is the name of the game Pro-Lix liquid feed supplements offer dairymen the means to maximize this value while getting the most from their cow's natural abilities

Pro-Lix liquid feed supplements are concentrated sources of just what ordinary feeds lack protein, energy, vitamins, minerals -- everything animals need for economical milk production and growth

For replacement heifers, Pro-Lix means faster maturity and assurance that they'll get to the milking herd on time If you trust your heifers to forage alone, they might not make it (Bouvatec Is Available)

For lactating cows, the nitrogen content of Pro-Lix means plenty of protein available for milk production and growth.

Finally, for dry cows, Pro-Lix not only helps maintain their health during the dry period it prepares them for the next lactation The Ca P ratio in Pro-Lix helps control milk fever, while the Vitamin E and selenium aids in clean-up after the birth of a calf

Best of all, Pro-Lix works with all types of pasture grass or forage, as a free-choice supplement, a top-dressing, or a ration mix

USDA-OK Dept Ag Market News

Oklahoma National Stockyards - Weekly Cattle Summary

Compared to last week: Feeder steers and heifers weak to mostly 2.00 lower. Demand moderate for feeders. Cattle futures sharply lower Monday in reaction to last Friday's bearish hog inventory report. Steer and heifer calves steady with good demand. Quality of feeder cattle supply average to mostly plain. Weigh-ups full to mostly average. Feeder cattle in medium to moderate flesh, end fleshy. Slaughter cows and bulls steady. Demand from packers and replacement buyers good. Total of 485 cows and bulls sold with 70 percent going to packers. Precipitation in Oklahoma has continued on the heavy side through June with much of the state accumulating 6-10 or more inches. Most pastures are as good as they can be with abundant hay made.  The Oklahoma National Stockyards and the Oklahoma City Market News Office will be closed Monday July 5, 1999 in observence of the Fourth of July Holiday. There will be a one day sale on Tuesday July 6, 1999 which will include feeder cattle and calves followed by the slaughter cow and bull sale.  Receipts this week 9,000; last week 12,356; last year 11,093. Supply consisted of 74 percent yearlings and calves over 600 lbs; 21 percent calves under 600 lbs; 5 percent cows and bulls. Prices follow with weighted average weight and price in parenthesis.

The OLD FARMER'S THIS WEEK WITH ALMANAC

MOON AT PERIGEE, JULY 11.

A HINT OF MINT

With summer upon us, the spearmint, peppermint, and lesser known Menthas that taste of apple, orange, or pineapple are in bloom. They are flavorful in soups, teas, and cold drinks and on vegetables. Peas and lamb are delicious when cooked with mint. Clarence Ousley (1863-1948) included mint in his verses about the fleeting nature of summertime: "When the South was in the glory of a never-ending June, the strings were on the banjo and the fiddle was in tune. And we reveled in the plenty that we thought could never pass, and lingered at the julep in the ever-brimming glass." But, like that June, summer (and the mints) will pass, so enjoy them now.

Mint "exhilarates the mind" and is "therefore proper to the studious." – Nicholas Culpeper (1652)

TIP OF THE WEEK

SUMMER SLAW

1 pound thinly sliced green cabbage
1 small red onion, chopped
1 green pepper, chopped
1 carrot, grated
4 tablespoons sour cream
3 tablespoons cider vinegar
2 teaspoons sugar
1 teaspoon salt
5 drops liquid hot-pepper sauce
salt and pepper, to taste

Combine vegetables in a large bowl. Blend remainder of ingredients in a small bowl for the dressing. If not serving immediately, refrigerate separately in two covered containers. Just before serving, blend dressing with slaw, and season to taste with salt and pepper. Can be made up to two days ahead.

Makes 4 servings.

The OLD FARMER'S WEATHER PROVERBS

A sunflower raising its head indicates rain.

The Building you want.
The Lease you need.

Telmark has been leasing equipment for over 30 years. Did you know that we've been leasing new buildings for that long too? Consider:

- Tax deductibility and accelerated write-offs: Lease payments are income tax deductible over the term of the lease compared to 20-year depreciation of farm buildings and 39-year depreciation of commercial buildings. Could reduce tax liability this year.
- Low upfront costs: Beginning costs as little as one monthly lease payment.
- Flexible lease term: Building lease terms start aggressively at five years but may be as long as ten, twelve, or fifteen years
- Customized payment schedules: Lease payment schedules are specially designed to match your cash flow.

First: Talk with a qualified builder to determine your needs and building cost.
Then: Call your Telmark representative for your financing.

The Two-Sided Sword Of Biotechnology

Guest Editorial By Norman G. Conrad
Agronomy Agent, Union Co. Extension Service

Two interesting discoveries related to agricultural research were released in the past several weeks. They deal with butterflies and sheep. Dolly the sheep's clone is suddenly aging faster than Scottish researchers had thought possible. Why? Very simply the biological clock that is ticking in every living cell whether you are a sheep, a human or strawberry plant kept ticking away in the tissue culture cells of Dolly's clone. All the high science has not figures out how to shut off the clock yet. The aging process continued to tick away regardless of the chronological age. Its cells had its own internal biological age — no mystery there. My son Adam studied Hamlet in his English class this year; so to paraphrase the Bard — "There are more wonders in the universe than are dreamed of in your philosophies Horatio."

Strike two on biotechnology was delivered by the monarch butterfly in the past several weeks. The "gene jockeys" who work for the major corn breeding companies had successfully been able to get the corn plant to produce a toxin which occurs normally in a bacterium in nature, Bacillus thuringensis. This bacterium is no surprise, it has been commercially available for biological control of various caterpillars such as cabbage moth and gypsy moth for several decades to both farmers and home gardeners. The bacteria are eaten by the caterpillars as they munch on the leaves of plants, and enter the digestive tract of the larvae. There it produces one of six different "strains" of a crystal toxin which multiplies in the guts of the insect and it is goodnight sweet prince — i.e., monarch caterpillar. (Sorry I just cannot seem get off the Shakespeare.)

The geneticists have been able to incorporate the production of the toxin right into the cells of the corn seed itself through gene splicing. Along comes some pesky critter like a female European corn borer moth. Mom lays her eggs on the corn plant, the caterpillars hatch out of their eggs and crawl off to get their first yummy corn plant meal and it is curtains. The corn plant leaves and stem contain the hidden toxin.

The reality is that under our corn growing conditions here in the northeast we have a very small window of risk from this pest. Corn borer actually grows out and develops using a very similar mechanism to the time clock mechanism like Dolly the sheep's cells. The hatch of the eggs is time regulated by temperature and humidity. Then there is the biology — the moth is attracted to only specific fields which we can predict. Here in the northeastern U.S. we get two generations of corn borer per year. When the growth stages of our corn population is overlain with the development of the corn borer only the very early planted crop at the end of April or the very late planted corn in the beginning of June are at risk from this pest. So less than 10 percent of our state's corn crop is at risk from this pest. Few farmers spend the extra money for higher priced seed if their crop is not at risk. That is why sales of Bt corn are also fairly low in this state. Corn borer is not a major problem most years in our state.

Along with the question of controlling the corn borer comes the question what about the corn pollen from Bt that blows from the tassels to pollinate the corn silks? Does it contain the toxin? The answer is yes. That was clearly demonstrated by John Losey at Cornell in the recent Monarch butterfly study. Remember the EPA requires all pesticides, whether biological or man made, to answer the question of what happens to non-target organisms if they are exposed to the toxic product. Curious that the EPA did not think to have the corn companies look at this issue before they approved Bt technology for nationwide release. (You can insert your own jokes at this point regarding policymakers inside the Beltway.)

The Cornell lab study posed a single question. Is there a non-target effect? John Losey fed monarch caterpillars milkweed leaves covered with corn pollen from Bt corn. Remember back to your elementary school science class that milkweed is the only food that monarchs can eat! He applied several different rates (concentrations) to the leaves and observed either dead caterpillars or it extended the time it took them to mature. As the concentration of pollen on the milkweed leaf dropped off so did his observed effects. That is a simple lab study, but let's see how it relates to what happens out in the corn fields. John did not make any attempt to relate the concentration he fed in the lab to what might be found on milkweed leaves in or near a cornfield. He simply did a lab study relating dosage (concentration of Bt pollen) to caterpillar mortality. That is called a

Lancaster County Agricultural Agent

To Understand Yellow Jackets

Yellow jackets with a sweet tooth become annoying pests this time of year. Colonies reach peak size in late summer and foraging activities intensify as workers seek food for developing queens and other members of the colony, according to Chester Hughes, Lancaster County Extension Livestock Agent.

Yellow jackets have a persistent habit of scavenging for food at picnics and outdoor restaurants. Yellow jackets foraging away from the nest are seldom aggressive and usually will not sting unless provoked. Avoid the temptation to swat them. Avoid nests too. Colonies die in late autumn and the abandoned nests are not reused and soon disintegrate. Yellow jackets often build nests underground in old rodent burrows, behind veneer on the side of a building, in the attic or in a rock wall. Nests may be destroyed with a wasp aerosol or dust insecticide applied at night in the nest opening. Locate the nest during the day. Then return after dark when the yellow jackets are less active to apply the insecticide. Never disturb a nest by setting fire, using a water hose or shinning a flashlight because yellow jackets are extremely aggressive when their nest is disturbed.

To Select Replacement Ewes

Chester Hughes, Lancaster County Extension Livestock Agent, reminds farmers that ewe lambs born in March and April are excellent candidates to be used as replacement ewes in spring lambing flocks. With proper feeding and breeding management, spring born ewe lambs should have lambs by the time they are 12 to 14 months old. Ewes that have their first lambs as yearlings have a higher lifetime production than ewes lambing as two year olds. Select the fastest growing twin and triplet ewe lambs for replacements. Not only is there an advantage in improved prolificacy, but twin and triplet lambs have a more moderate growth rate, which prevents excess fat deposition in the udder. Lifetime milk production may be reduced in ewe lambs grown at an accelerated rate before puberty. Ewe lambs should weigh approximately 60 percent of their mature body weight at the time of breeding. That equates to a weight of approximately 100 pounds at breeding for most commercial crossbred ewe lambs. Expose the ewe lambs to rams for 50 days. To ensure proper development, ewe lambs should receive one pound of grain daily up through lambing. To prevent excessively large lambs at birth, grain should not be increased during late gestation.

To Understand Potassium Deficiency

The past several weeks many people have reported seeing corn and other plants with bottom leaves which are yellowing along the margins, in some cases this has turned brown. Yellowing begins at the leaf tip on lower leaves and extends back toward the stalk. Bottom leaves usually show the most severe symptoms and as you move up the plant, each leaf shows less.

These symptoms are typical of potassium deficiency. According to Robert Anderson, Lancaster County Extension Agronomy Agent, these symptoms may occur even when soil levels of potassium are in the adequate or higher level on the soil test report. Potassium deficiency symptoms develop because plants cannot extract potassium from dry surface soil. This is compounded in soils that have low subsurface potassium levels. Adding additional potassium is not likely to change the situation. Having a soil test for the next growing season may be helpful in determining if the soil is deficient or if the deficiency is due to weather. If the deficiency is due to dry soil conditions, the plant will usually recover as soon as a normal rainfall pattern returns with little or no loss in yields.

WHERE IS YOUR PROMISED LAND?
July 4, 1999

Background Scripture:
Genesis 11:27 through 12:9
Devotional Reading:
Hebrews 11:8-12

When you consider the story of Abraham, do not overlook that he was 75 years of age when he heard God calling him to leave behind his family and friends to journey to a far land of which he knew absolutely nothing!

I am just six years short of his age at that time and I can assure you that, if I came to my family and friends and told them that God had called me to leave Dallas to journey and settle down in a far-away land on the edge of nowhere, they would certainly lose no time in having me committed! People at my age don't do that sort of thing! In fact, very few people of any age do things like that and we would have a hard time understanding anyone who did what he did.

Abraham is regarded today as the epitome of faith. He not only believed that God had spoken to him, he also believed that he could trust God to do what he promised: "And I will make of you a great nation, and I will bless you, and make your name great so that you will be a blessing" (Gen. 11: 2,3).

A SENIOR MOMENT?

Can you imagine what neighbors in Haman thought? This man must be having "a senior moment!" Why leave the populous and cosmopolitan city of Haman for a desert crossroads on the way to nowhere? In his book, Out of My Life and Thought, Albert Schweitzer says that he was the subject of the same kind of reaction when he announced that he was giving up his distinguished career — actually, several distinguished careers — to open a mission station and hospital in French Equatorial Africa.

We protect ourselves from this kind of seeming insanity with the rationalization that Abraham was, after all, a hero of the faith, a man specially endowed with superhuman faith and commitment. The Bible, however, does not say anything about Abraham being different from the rest of us. Up to age 75 there is nothing recorded about him or his faith. He become different only when he dared to act according to his divine call.

So, before we put too much qualitative difference between Abraham and ourselves, we need to recognize that this passage speaks to us today, not just about God's call to Abraham, but also his call to each of us. At 69 years of age, I may not be called to move from Dallas, Texas, but I know I am being called to something and you are too. At age 75 Abraham was informed by God that there was more potential to his life than he would have dreamed and at whatever age God finds us, he is saying no less to us. To Abraham, it was a far country, but it is for us, too, no less than a call to a promised land.

HABIT OF INFERIORITY

So, where is your Promised Land? To what is God calling you? Think about it.

Psychologist William James said that many of us adopt "the habit of inferiority to our full self." As a result, "the human individual thus lives usually far within his limits; he possesses powers of various sorts which he habitually fails to use." One of the tragedies of life is that so many of us live, not on the cutting edge of our divine endowment, but "far within" our limits. You may be sure that God is calling each of us to push the outer limits of our capacities and opportunities. James also says that this person "energizes below his maximum, and he behaves below his optimum." So, how do you measure up?

God's call to Abraham was uncomplicated. God made two promises and a challenge: he and his descendants would receive a land that God would show him and God would make of him a great nation. Abraham would be blessed — as you and I also are blessed — for a purpose: "so that you will be a blessing . . . and by you all the families of the earth will bless themselves."

Is God calling you? No doubt about it! To what is he calling you? That is for you to determine. But, if you find it hard to understand just where your Promised Land lies, God can make it sufficiently simple. He has richly blessed you : so how can you be a blessing to others?

ATTENTION SOYBEAN GROWERS:

The facts about herbicides and

Roundup Ready™ SOYBEANS FOR OVER THE TOP APPLICATION

Many chemical companies are spending huge amounts of money trying to convince you to spend up to $20/acre on unnecessary residuals or tank mixes for Roundup Ready Soybeans. Please ask yourself why....

The facts about Roundup Ultra alone:

- 85% of 1998 growers used Roundup alone
- it kills more weeds, more effectively
- Roundup Ultra kills perennials
- it doesn't restrict your crop rotations
- it doesn't stunt or burn your beans
- it saves you money!!!

Roundup ULTRA Herbicide by Monsanto

98% of '98 growers will increase '99 Roundup Ready acres

Why are some companies desperately trying to sell you chemicals you don't need?

It's all you need. Period.

Recommendations for Using Roundup Ultra in Roundup Ready™ Soybeans

Monsanto TECHNOLOGY VALUE PACKAGE

1. Start clean!
   - ALWAYS use a burndown in full season soybeans
   - in double crop burndown if needed
2. Plant in as narrow a row as possible
   - the faster the crop canopy the better!
3. Apply 1 quart/acre Roundup Ultra as close to crop canopy closure as is practical
   - weeds are usually 4-8" tall & it is 3-5 weeks after planting
   - if weeds are greater than 8", use 1.5qts.
   - use 1.5-2 qts/A for perennial weeds
   - Apply a second application of Roundup Ultra if needed for later germinating weeds

TOBACCO BLUE MOLD

ACROBAT®

MZ FUNGICIDE

DIRECTIONS FOR USE IN FIELD GROWN TOBACCO

Directed Foliar Applications

Application Rates and Timing Chart To Control Blue Mold

| Weeks Of Growth After Transplant | Rate Of ACROBAT MZ (Pounds of Product) | Water Output (Gallons/Acre) |
|---|---|---|
| Recently Transplanted to 3 weeks after transplanting | 0.50 | 20 |
| 3-4 weeks after transplanting (Knee High) | 1.0 | 40 |
| 4-5 weeks after transplanting (Waist High) | 1.5 | 60 |

Note: Above directions are for dilute sprays. If concentrate sprays are used, adjust rate and volumes proportionately, e.g. for mist blowers, use a 2X concentrate and 1/2 the spray volume.

Begin applications when the Blue Mold Advisory states that conditions favor development of blue mold, and before the onset of disease infection. Continue applications on a 5-7 day spray schedule until weather conditions favoring infection and sporulation decrease. Discontinue sprays when and if the threat of blue mold subsides.

ACROBAT MZ can only be used in a preventative spray program to manage blue mold in tobacco. Total plant coverage is essential to achieve maximum disease control with ACROBAT MZ. ACROBAT MZ must be used in accordance with the label.

If you're planning to get bigger...

And some cash.

Before you turn over the first shovelful of dirt for an expansion project, I hope you'll put pencil to paper to figure out how it's going to benefit your farm business. And when you get to the financing part of your planning process, I hope you'll give me a call. At ENB, we've been helping farmers grow their businesses for the past 117 years.

1999 PVGA Field Tour Goes To South Jersey

RICHFIELD (Juniata Co.) — The 1999 Pennsylvania Vegetable Growers Association Field Tour on July 14 will feature visits to the Vineland Produce Auction, the New Jersey Tomato Council packinghouse, two vegetable farms and Seabrook Brothers freezing plant. This one-day bus tour will be an inside glimpse of the vegetable industry in southern New Jersey that is sure to be a valuable educational experience for growers and others in the industry.

7 a.m. - Depart from the Home Furnishings Factory Outlet Mall, Morgantown, Pa. (just off exit 22 of the Pennsylvania Turnpike). Overnight accommodations are available at the nearby Holiday Inn.

8 a.m. - Arrive at Flaim & Sons, Vineland, N.J. Flaim & Sons is a third generation farming operation located in East Vineland. Robert Flaim Sr. and his two sons Robert Jr. and Kevin produce a variety of fresh vegetables which are marketed under the Panther Brands label. They grow among other vegetables: dadelions, arugula, dill, parsley, eggplant, collards, kale, Swiss chard, lettuce (leaf, Boston, and romaine), cabbage, green onions, peppers, spinach, squash, and leeks on approximately 160 acres. The vegetables are marketed through chain stores, produce cooperatives, and individual brokers.

Flaims are continually experimenting with new technologies such as drip irrigation, colored plastic mulches, new varieties, improved pest management practices and season extenders. They are always trying to improve their farm operation to produce better produce for the market place.

10:30 a.m. - Arrive at Vineland Produce Auction, Vineland, N.J. Farmer-owned cooperatives are the center of sales for fresh vegetables grown in this area of New Jersey. The Vineland Produce Auction, a wholesale sales auction, began in 1930 (it is the second oldest in continuous operation) and has 250+ farmer members. This is the largest vegetable cooperative on the East Coast. It features vacuum hydrocoolers as well as large refrigeration units for use by the members. Price is not controlled, but the result of supply and demand. There are about 40 full-time buyers and the auction operates 35 weeks a year shipping produce to the Midwest, south to Florida and to Canada.

The Vineland Produce Auction last year (1998) sold 7,512,760 packages of fresh vegetables from April to November, with a value greater than $61 million. The auction handled over 45 different items with peppers, summer squash, cucumbers and eggplant being the largest salers.

The Vineland Auction doubled its cooler capacity last year with an additional 60' x 90' cooler and four forced air units. The Auction has adopted a modernization program, which includes a recent web page launch, to better service their growers.

11:30 a.m. - Enjoy a catered luncheon at the Vineland Auction featuring baked chicken, baked ziti, Italian sausage and peppers, potato salad, macaroni salad, tossed salad, rolls, carrot cake, brownies, coffee and iced tea.

12:30 p.m. - Arrive at Sheppard Farms, Cedarville, N.J. For 300 years farming has been a tradition for the Sheppard family. From livestock to the present line of vegetables and grains, the family has contributed greatly to the agricultural growth and economy of Cumberland County. The founders, four brothers who migrated to South Jersey from England, began a tradition of excellence and a commitment to the quality that continues today.

Three brothers, David Jr., Tom and Erwin manage Sheppard Farms. Each is a graduate of Cornell University. Dave oversees the growing of the produce, ensuring abundant naturally healthy crops by utilizing good nutrient management, rotation techniques and pest management. Tom handles the sales, marketing and products supply for the seasonal demands. Erwin supervises the harvesting, assuring that all produce is picked at the peak of maturity and cooled to extend shelf life. The 160 employees help enable Sheppard Farms to produce and sell healthy, nutritious products while maintaining and enriching the land for future generations.

Farming 1,200 acres, their products include lettuce, peppers, cucumbers, as well as wheat, soybeans and clover. The farm handles 28,000 cartons of lettuce, peppers and cucumbers daily for delivery to chain stores, direct buyers and brokers. N.J. Eastern Fresh Growers, Inc., a subsidiary of Sheppard Farms, Inc. is the sales agent for the products grown. Tour participants will see field harvesting and packing.

1:45 p.m. - Arrive at The New Jersey Tomato Council in Cedarville, N.J. The New Jersey Tomato Council is a farmer cooperative established 1993 in Cedarville. The primary purpose of the Council is to promote, pack and sell fresh tomatoes grown by its farmer members. Other services provided for its members include cooperative purchasing of supplies, educational resources, and integrated crop management services. The Council presently has over 20 members and associates with several being located in Cumberland County.

Their state-of-the-art packing facility handles all their stake-tomato production in New Jersey.

The packing line employs computer-controlled optical sizing and color sorting and gentle handling features. The highly efficient line can pack up to 1,000 25-pound boxes with 50 employees doing various tasks such as grading, packing and shipping. Members use advanced production practices that include hybrid varieties, plastic mulch, drip irrigation, stake culture, and integrated crop management practices. The council packs both round and plum tomatoes. They added an asparagus packing line in 1999 and started shipping their member's production.

3 p.m. - Arrive at Seabrook Brothers in Seabrook, N.J. Seabrook brothers was founded by Charles F. Seabrook, a pioneer in agriculture, the commercial freezing of vegetables and the development of the nursery industry in South Jersey.

Seabrook started growing vegetables in 1893 and soon thereafter began to look for ways to get fresh vegetables to more consumers. His research led to the development of frozen food processing which began on a large scale in 1931. Seabrook founded Seabrook FArms Corporation near Bridgeton in 1933. Until 1976, this firm was one of the largest farming and frozen foods operations in the United States controlling production of over 30,000 acres of vegetable crops.

In 1978, three grandsons of Seabrook started Seabrook Brothers and Sons and built a new $9.2 million frozen vegetable processing plant in Upper Deerfield Township. It is a modern plant, freezing snap beans, spinach, collards, mustard greens, peppers, peas and lima beans. They process over 93 million pounds of produce from 22,000 acres with a sales value of $60 million.

Charles Seabrook also founded Koster's Nursery which became one of the most famous nurseries in the United States. Many of the nurseries now in existence in the area can trace their beginnings to Koster's.

5:30 p.m. - Arrive back at Home Furnishings Factory Outlet Mall, Morgantown, Pa. and depart for home.

The cost for the Field Tour is $35 per person for PVGA members, $45 per person for non-PVGA members and $30 per person for children 16 and under. Spouses, family members, employees and guests of members may attend at the member rate. This includes the bus fare, luncheon and refreshments. Reservations are due by July 2 but should be made as soon as possible so appropriate meal and transportation arrangements can be made. If you are interested in attending, please call PVGA at 717-694-3596 to let us know of your interest as soon as possible.

Overnight accommodations are available at Morgantown Holiday Inn, located just near the Home Furnishings Factory Outlet Mall. Call 800-339-0264 and tell them you are with the Pennsylvania Vegetable Growers Association group. The rate is $79 per night. Plan to arrive at the Mall by at least 6:45 a.m. since we must leave at 7 a.m. to stay on schedule.

Centre County Student Penn State Outstanding Senior

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Christopher A. Connelly, son of Denise and Ronald Connelly of Pennsylvania Furnace, received the 1999 Penn State College of Agricultural Sciences Outstanding Senior Award at the college's commencement ceremony on Saturday, May 15 in Eisenhower Auditorium.

The award, sponsored by the College of Agricultural Sciences Alumni Society and the Coaly Society, honors seniors who best combine academics, extracurricular activities, work experience and communication skills. Candidates are selected based on resumes, short essays, grades, and interviews.

A 1995 graduate of State College Area High School, Connelly received his bachelor's degree in dairy and animal science at the commencement ceremony. He served as chairman of the 1998 Nittany Lion Fall Classic sponsored by the Penn State Dairy Science Club and was selected 1999 Overall Champion of Penn State's Dairy Expo. He is past-president of Alpha Zeta agricultural fraternity.

Connelly was a member of the Penn State Dairy Judging Team and was selected an All-American Judge, placing eighth overall in the 1997 National Intercollegiate Contest. He also was an All-American Judge at the 1996 National 4-H Judging Contest.

Connelly has served as a teaching assistant for several animal science courses, and has completed an internship with Cargill Corp. Animal Nutrition Division. He attended the 1997 and 1998 conventions of the American Dairy Science Association and represented the university in competition at several conventions of the Northeast Student Affiliate of the American Dairy Science Association and the American Society of Animal Sciences.

He is the 1998 National Distinguished Junior Member of Holstein USA Inc., the 1998 Distinguished Junior Member of the Pennsylvania Holstein Association, and a member of the Gamma Delta Sigma honorary fraternity and the Coaly Agricultural Honor Society.

"Chris has excelled in managing time and balancing leadership in the Alpha Zeta and the Penn State Dairy Science Club, work experience, and academic achievement," said Dale Olver, instructor in dairy and animal science. "He is an effective communicator who leads by example. His peers highly respect his ability to organize effective teams and to make good decisions, and he's always shown a genuine interest in helping people."

Connelly will attend Virginia-Maryland School of Veterinary Medicine after graduation from Penn State.

Successful Stream Restoration Efforts On Display During Project Tour

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

RONKS (Lancaster Co.) — For perhaps the first time in memory, a tour group gathered last week at the Muddy Run Creek on the dairy farm of Jesse and E'mer King and herd a bobwhite quail making its characteristic bird call — what some say could be a sign of avian life coming back to the streambed.

It was eight years since the beginning of a long-term creek restoration project and seven years since the installation of stream bank protection.

The tour group, comprised of 60 members of various state and federal agencies, producers, and agri-industry representatives from around the region, were provided a stop-by-stop tour and overview of the culminating years of the wide-ranging, multi-agency cooperative effort known as the Pequea-Mill Creek Hydrologic Unit Area Project.

The mission's payoffs were evident. When Lance McDowell, Pennsylvania Fish and Boat Commission, heard the call of the bobwhite, he said, "I've been here five times since the start of the project, and it's the first time I ever heard it."

As McDowell was explaining to the group, the work undertaken on the fencing project since 1991 was making real progress. He had trapped and pulled various aquatic species from the creek, evidence of better health: white suckers, creek chub, tessellated darters, even goldfish.

Some of these couldn't be found in 1991 in the creek. When work began on the project, the stream bottom substrate was 100 percent silt deposits. By 1996, silt had been reduced more than 80 percent because of the fencing. The width of the channel decreased dramatically from its original size in those years, from 10.6 and 7.5 meters in 1991 to 7.9 and 7.1 meters in 1996.

"In 1991, when we came, the stream was grazed to the bank, it was all muddied up, banks were steep from cow erosion — it was in pretty rough shape," said McDowell. But the silt, he noted, was reduced dramatically.

In 1991, there were only 13 different taxa of benthic macroinvertebrates in the sample. In 1996, the amount of macroinvertebrates increased to 20.

Darter species increased from six in 1991 to eight in 1996.

"We'd figure they would increase," he said. The sediment control has contributed a lot to the dramatic increase. "It's really looking good compared to what it was in 1991, but it has a long way to go."

That year — 1991 — marked the start of the nine-year Pequea-Mill Creek Project, a watershed comprising 135,000 acres (22 percent of the county) and 1,000 farms in the east-central part of Lancaster County, part of the Chesapeake Watershed, noted Les Lanyon, Penn State agronomist.

There are 55,000 cows in the watershed. The project area encompasses 80 percent Amish or Plain farmers.

The King farm was one of seven stops on the tour last week.

The first stop was at the Harlan Keener Farm in West Lampeter. The tour group examined a sampling station on a tributary of the Big Spring Run. The farm, which pastures about 70-100 head of cows, began working with the project in 1993, according to Lanyon. All pasture is fenced, and the tributary includes a 10-12 foot wide buffer strip.

The purpose of the project: keep the cows out of the stream, stabilize the stream bank (allow the stream bank to revegetate itself), and stop nutrients from livestock getting to the stream.

According to Dan Galeone, hydrologist with the United States Geological Survey (USGS), the stream was regularly sampled for flow and storm surge. Also, groundwater from shallow wells was regularly tested. There were five sites in the treatment basin.

The tributary was fenced in the spring of 1997. The USGS collected three years of data before fencing and two years of treatment data after.

"The biggest change we've seen is the benefit to invertebrates in stream channel," said Galeone. But as for increased avian or fish presence, and for reduction of sediment, the results haven't been quite as dramatic as what you might think, he said. But the number of aquatic "bugs," Galeone noted, has increased in the channel, including the "species richness index" which measures changes to habitant.

The work was paid for in a cooperative effort with USGS, the Pennsylvania Department of Environmental Protection, and Act 319 funding. Fencing was paid with 100 percent cost sharing from the Chesapeake Bay Program.

At a monitoring station/shed, information on sampling is sent via a mounted satellite antenna sending data every four hours to the field office in Lemoyne, noted Galeone. The information includes water level, precipitation, and battery voltage for the fencing.

The next stop was Fultonway Farms, a 120-acre all-registered Holstein dairy. In 1994, fresh water roof runoff pipelines were installed and other practices were put in place to ward off rainwater from the barnyard.

Also, a manure storage structure measuring 82 feet in diameter and 12 feet deep was installed to handle 6½ months of manure storage with Chesapeake Bay funds, at a cost of $80,000, noted Frank Lucas, Pequea-Mill Creek project leader.

All water from the spouting is diverted from the barn and flows into the stream. Also, upslope water is diverted away from the barnyard.

As a result of the work of the project on Fultonway Farms, barnyard site conditions went from a low score of one to a score of four in terms of keeping water diverted, barnyard runoff eliminated, manure directed to a certified storage area, and other practices to improve overall herd health.

Before, the cows rated a score of 4, which means the animals were down and unable to rise because of lameness, with extremely soiled conditions, to a score of 0, where the cows were not reluctant to walk and the cow was clean. Feet, legs, udder, and flanks are free from mud and manure.

Another stop included the Gideon Fisher Farm near Bird In Hand. The farm, with about 50 cows, proved to be almost perfect as an example of how simple pasture management strategies can be put to work. According to Gerald Martin, formerly of the project and now a crop and livestock agent in Dauphin County, the project had "an impact in the whole project area, and beyond the project," he told the group. "This is good example of that."

The site was "donated" to the project, in a sense, according to Frank Lucas. Essentially the exercise lots turned into pastures, composed of 20 percent orchardgrass and 75 percent tall fescue with 8-9 percent clover. The work turned into a good, showcase-type example of how best management practices, or BMPs, can be used to improve exercise areas for cows throughout the region. At microphone is Gerald Martin.

The project discovered ways to showcase and "multiply" what they were doing.

The site was "donated" to the project, in a sense, according to Frank Lucas. Essentially the exercise lots turned into pastures, composed of 20 percent orchardgrass and 75 percent tall fescue with 8-9 percent clover. The work turned into a good, showcase-type example of how best management practices, or BMPs, can be used to improve exercise areas for cows throughout the region.

When the water areas were moved out to the pasture, Martin found out that a third of the total water consumed by the animals was in the pastures. Also the project directed studies of different temperatures, comparing feedlots to grass. The temperature difference can range from five to 18 degrees, proving that grazing areas are cooler for animals.

Formerly with the project, Jeff Stoltzfus, now Eastern Lancaster County Adult Farmer Program instructor, said the ideas for the project came to them on a trip to a rotational grazier in Virginia and the work of Jerry Swisher through the Virginia Extension Service. The group toured the Virginia rotational operation.

Cows will do better on grass than in dirt or mud, noted Frank Lucas. And the system put in place at the 60-acre Fisher farm is user-friendly — meaning that if a part breaks, "they can go to a hardware store and get it," Lucas said.

If a producer has five or six acres to set aside, it would make great pasture land, according to Lucas.

Although the federal funding for the Pequea-Mill Creek Project is complete, the project will continue to work with various state agencies to promote and sponsor additional stream bank fencing projects. The project is working with a variety of agencies to also stock the creeks with trout, including work with Ducks Unlimited out of its Annapolis, Md. office.

Other tours scheduled the same afternoon included the Benuel Smucker Farm, Eugene Martin farm, and the Elam Esch farm.

An Engaged Department – What is it?

Terry D. Etherton
Department Head

Penn State is an engaged University – one that embraces and values the importance of extension and outreach activities as means to educate the populace in Pennsylvania, the Country and the World. The scope of our activities is astonishing to me. Consider that about one-half of all households in Pennsylvania have at least one person participating annually in a non-resident Penn State program or activity! It is evident that knowledge must be distributed not only to students at Penn State but to individuals outside our gates. Central to knowledge distribution is the question of how to deliver this information to our clientele? We are moving through an era where a rapidly growing proportion of information distribution is taking place over the Internet.

As many of you know, the traffic over the Internet is booming. For example, every 100 days traffic doubles over the Internet! Current estimates are that by the year 2000 there will 100,00,000 host Web sites Worldwide! To put this in perspective, there were only 130,000 host sites in 1989!

The explosive growth of the Internet is a cultural revolution that follows other transformations in society such as the Agricultural Revolution and the Industrial Revolution. In the Department of Dairy and Animal Science we are harnessing information technology to deliver a rich variety of educational information to you. We view our Web site (http://www-das.cas.psu.edu/) to be a window to the World, a portal to you. With this in mind we begun to overhaul our departmental Web site. Over the next few months we will transform our Web site. Our goal is to develop a portal for you to use to find information of importance about animal agriculture and to find the expertise you may need to help you with a question.

Access to this information will be important. Agriculture is going through a period where rapid change is taking place. A good example of change is occurring in the dairy industry. Some have estimated that 10 years from now there will be approximately 600 dairy farms in Pennsylvania producing about 75% of the milk! Presently, there are about 10,500 dairy farms in Pennsylvania. For producers to successfully navigate this period it will be important they know their production costs, use sound business management practices and keep abreast of evolving technologies they can implement to enhance production efficiency. To achieve these goals and maintain economic viability, producers will have to efficiently acquire the information they need to continue building their knowledge and expertise. The research, teaching and extension/outreach programs we have and will build on in the Department are designed to deliver this information in a timely and efficient manner.

To be effectively engaged as a department we must be mindful about what information we need

The Lancaster Chamber of Commerce & Industry

Phone: (717) 397-3531

It's Nice to Meet You!

By this time, many of you have noticed that in the past several months this column has had several guest writers from the Lancaster Chamber's Ag Committee. I would like to thank each of those who have helped during this transition period. As many of you know, Jim Shirk decided to move on, and passed the torch on to me. I'm Brendon Landis, and I recently joined the Lancaster Chamber as the new agricultural services coordinator.

To give a personal introduction, I was raised on a family-owned custom crop protection business in the eastern part of Lancaster County. It was there that I developed a strong interest in agriculture and formed my career goal. I recently graduated from Penn State University with a bachelor's degree in agricultural business management and a minor in ag economics and rural sociology. While at Penn State I served as an Ag Advocate for the College of Ag Sciences, helping to promote ag education. I also served as a Vice-President for the National Agri-Marketing Association at Penn State. This past year I was a member of Penn State's team, which placed second in the nation at the annual National Agri-Marketing competition. I am a member of both the Gamma Sigma Delta and Coaly honor societies.

Brendon Landis

Along with working with my father at the family business, I have worked as a field scout for Brubaker Agronomic Consulting Service and as a sales intern for both Dow AgroSciences and American Cyanamid. During my time at Penn State and through my different internships and work experience, I have developed a strong desire to be part of Lancaster's agriculture and fast changing future.

So, how did I become part of The Lancaster Chamber of Commerce & Industry? I began as the new agricultural services coordinator in January on a part-time basis while finishing up my last semester at Penn State. Following graduation in May, I started full-time.

My largest responsibility is assisting the Lancaster Chamber's Ag Committee. This very knowledgeable group is comprised of six production farmers, five ag lenders, six ag business leaders, and three ex-officio members. Lowell Fry, agricultural lending officer at Fulton Bank, is serving as the current Chairman of the ag committee. The Ex-Officios on the ag committee include Paul Thibault, Lancaster County Commissioner; Dr. Schwartz, director of the Lancaster County Cooperative Extension; and Tom Stouffer, executive director of the Lancaster Farmland Trust. Each of these ag committee members have a strong background in agriculture and are all working together to promote our ag industry.

The 1999 ag committee goals concentrate on four main areas; the first goal is to educate the non-farm public on agricultural issues, the economic benefits of agriculture, the effect of agriculture on the quality of life, and the realities of modern agriculture. The second goal is to monitor legislation, regulations and public policies impacting agriculture at all levels of government. The third is to sponsor educational programs for the agriculture community. And, the last goal is to build agricultural awareness within the Chamber and grow our agricultural Chamber membership. Our ag committee is always open to new ideas, questions or concerns in the ag community.

I am very excited to serve in this rewarding position and look forward to working with Lancaster's agriculture and the future changes it faces. If you have any suggestions or would like to become involved with this rewarding committee, please contact myself; Brendon Landis, Agricultural Services Coordinator, at The Lancaster Chamber of Commerce & Industry, PO Box 1558, Lancaster, PA 17608-1558. Feel free to call me at (717) 397-3531, ext. 62 or e-mail at blandis@lcci.com.

Ag Issues Forum Sets Bio-Technology July Meeting

LEOLA (Lanc. Co.) — On July 8, the Ag Issues Forum will have its monthly meeting at the Leola Family Restaurant, Route 23, Leola, from 7:30 a.m.-9 a.m. Breakfast will be served promptly at 7:30 a.m. and is $8 (with reservations) or $10 (at the door).

The meeting will shart at 8 a.m. and is free. The July topic is Bio-Technology and will be addressed by Dr. Robert Fry (Atlantic Dairy Manager Services), Susan Mora (regional manager of State Government Affairs, Monsanto) and Dan Gard (Monsanto Animal Health Division). This will be a very informative meeting with the opportunity for attendees to ask questions.

Since 1989, the Ag Issues Forum has met a need within the agricultural community by making available speakers to interact with the Forum attendees in open discussion.

To make a reservation or for more information, call Christina Acosta at (717-859-3276).

State Adds 12 Counties To Drought Warning List

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The state continues to be suffering from drought, and conditions and outlook have not been improving.

Record and near record low flows continue in streams throughout the state, and despite some intermittent and spotty rainfall, on June 25 the state expanded its drought warning to 12 additional counties, leaving only eight counties — affected by Ohio Valley weather systems and Great Lakes effects — under drought watch.

In fact, the regularly updated Drought Information Center section on the state Department of Environmental Resources homepage on June 25 stated, "With the predicted levels of precipitation, June will produce rainfall deficits ....

"At this point, we must expect end-of-month ground water data to indicate emergency or near emergency conditions in many counties. The reservoir of ground water, upon which streams depend during low flow periods, is truly in jeopardy at this time.

"Conservation is critical at this time in order to avoid emergency measures in the coming few weeks."

On June 30, the Drought Report held less dire, but not too much better news.

"During the past two days, precipitation in the form of showers and thunderstorms was prevalent throughout most of the state, west of a line from about Adams to Pike counties, with more scattered and less inteesive activity east of that line ...."

The report noted that western and northwestern counties received from 1 to 2 inches of rain, with more than 3 inches recorded in areas of Clearfield County.

As far as groundwater levels, where the rain fell, some cessation of decline has occured, whereas groundwater levels in the rest of the state continued to decline.

(Except at one well in Pike County noted for its extreme recharge and discharge rate. It jumped almost 7 feet.)

"Continued shower and thunderstorm activity is forecast during the next few days, with the 5-day outlook showing a total of about .5- to 1-inch of precipitation statewide.

"The six-to-10-day outlook adds essentially 0 (inches) to that total.

"Temperatures are to remain above normal, with hot, muggy weather in the early part of the period."

Though mostly above the "knee-high by 4th of July" folk gauge for the rate of corn growth, much of the corn has been spiking early in the day, and some appears to not be able to "relax" overnight.

To review state government involvement with dealing with drought, through the oversight of the governor, the state has authority over civil emergencies, including drought.

It has a three-level emergency condition program that consists of two voluntary levels — "drought watch," and "drought warning," — and a mandatory restriction level, "drought emergency."

Most of the state is now under the second level for voluntary reductions in water use. The goal of the first level is a 5-percent reduction in water use; the second level is a 10-percent reduction.

The third level is mandatory restrictions, which means possible arrests and fines for wasting water.

Under the state system, only the governor can declare that the state be under mandatory restrictions.

Agricultural uses are essential uses and are not to be denied. However, many household uses are not essential uses, even on farms.

Several governmental entities have authority involving drought in Pennsylvania.

They include the state government, which has concern for the welfare of the residents and industry of the commonwealth; and the multi-state-federal river basin compact commissions — Susquehanna River Basin Commission, Delaware River Basin Commission, and the Potomac River Basin Commission.

Each has its own system for determining drought conditions and the appropriate response.

The river basin commissions have authority over the uses of the flows within the respective river basins and can independently restrict water use.

However, because Pennsylvania state government is equally represented in each basin, and through cooperative and communicative relationships, many of the decisions made by the commissions are used by state government in order to make its declarations.

For those unaware, Pennsylvania is currently in a drought situation that has broken many records for deficit for the time of year.

That may forebode serious lasting problems, since July and August are typically dry periods.

While DEP declared the second level drought warning on behalf of Gov. Ridge, the authority to delcare a full scale "drought emergency" lies with the governor.

For the state's drought declaration program, five parameters are used to determine severity of water shortage — precipitation deficits; groundwater levels; streamflows; soil moisture; and reservoir levels.

If four of the five are met, an emergency declaration is to be made.

The SRBC has a basin-wide drought warning in effect, and is scheduled to hold a hearing July 8, in Cooperstown, New York, following its regular meeting, to take testimony and receive evidence to be used in determining whether a full-scale drought emergency should be declared.

The SRBC authority applies to all those in the 27,510 square miles of the Susquehanna River Basin, including New York and Maryland.

The Susquehanna River Basin comprises about half of Pennsylvania.

The SRBC's current drought warning carries a 10- to 15-percent voluntary reduction in water use. That compares favorably to the state's call for a 10-percent reduction for the same area.

The state Department of Environtmental Protection divides the state into 11 drought monitoring regions to track drought conditions. This map also shows the portions of the state currently under drought warning (darker shaded) and drought watch conditions.

How Drought Conditions Are Tracked

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The state Department of Environmental Protection uses four parameters to monitor the severity of drought, and has set specific thresholds for each parameter to guide in declaring water-use restrictions.

To review state government involvement with dealing with drought, through the oversight of the governor the state has authority over civil emergencies, including drought.

It has a three-level water-restriction program that consists of two voluntary levels — "drought watch," and "drought warning," — and a mandatory restriction level, "drought emergency."

Most of the state is now under the second level for voluntary reductions in water use. The goal of the first level is a 5-percent reduction in water use; the second level is a 10-percent reduction.

The third level is mandatory restrictions, which means possible arrests and fines for wasting water.

Under the state system, only the governor can declare that the state be under mandatory restrictions.

The four parameters that are measured by DEP are: precipitation deficit; groundwater level; streamflow; and the Palmer Index.

Those parameters relate to different segments of the local water cycle.

Each of those parameters has been assigned threshold levels, at which one of the three water-use restrictions would be recommended.

In order to achieve an actual declaration of any level of water-use restriction, three of the four parameters must meet or exceed their respective threshold level.

Precipitation Deficit

Precipitation deficit is a weekly measurement of the percentage deviation from normal rainfall for each county.

The DEP calls that percentage the "weighted average precipitation deficit" expressed as a percent of normal rainfall.

A table has been devised that sets the threshold precipitation deficit percentages, according to number of months (with a minimum three months observation).

Depending on the length of time being considered (i.e., three months, four months, five months, etc.), the water-restriction threshold for percentage deficit to normal rainfall varies.

For example, the threshold for declaring a drought warning is set as a 25-percent deficit of precipitation over a 12-month period. At the same time, the critical threshold for considering a drought warning is a 30-percent deficit over four months.

Groundwater

Groundwater levels are monitored at 50 county observation wells maintained by the U.S. Geological Survey.

The monthly average depth to water in each of the wells are compared to the historical monthly averages in order to determine what percentage the groundwater dropped from what it should be.

If the water drops more than 75 percent below what it should be, that is a threshold for declaring a drought watch; at 90-percent below normal, a drought warning is called for; at 95-percent exceedence, a drought emergency is to be considered. And, as an additional note, if the drop in the water level is 100 percent below what it should be for the month, it represents a historical lowest level on record.

Stream Flow

Stream flows in the state are monitored at 26 streamgages across the commonwealth by the U.S. Geological Survey.

The monthly average streamflow, as recorded in cubic feet per second, is computed for each streamgage and compared to the historic monthly average for each site to determine the percentage reduction difference.

A 75-percent drop from normal indicates a drought watch; 90-percent or more is a drought warning; and 95-percent percent or more indicates a drought emergency. As with groundwater, a 100-percent drop from historical normal flow indicates a record low flow.

Palmer Index

The Palmer Hydrologic Drought Index is compiled by the Climate Analysis Center of the National Weather Service and uses both weather and water data to measure the severity of drought.

In addition to weather data, it also uses local soil moisture, streamflow and surface water storage levels (reservoir levels) to reflect overall water availability.

It is computed weekly.

P=ET+R+RO-L
With P representing the computed rainfall required to satisfy existing hydrologic conditions; ET represents the rate of evapotranspiration; R is for the soil water recharge; RO is the surface water runoff; L is the water loss from the soil.

A Palmer Index of minus 2 to minus 2.99 indicates a drought watch; minus 3 to minus 3.99 indicates a drought warning; minus 4 and greater indicates a drought emergency.

Drought Regions

Furthermore, the DEP monitors the drought conditions in 11 regions within the commonwealth.

However, it is not necessary for an entire region to be under drought conditions in order to trigger a response from the state, since the DEP monitors at the county level.

For more information, see the DEP home page at www.dep.state.pa.us.

Chester County Holstein Club Field Day

COCHRANVILLE (Chester Co.) — The Chester County Holstein Club has announced plans for its annual field day event, set for 10 a.m., July 15 at the Sam S. Stoltzfus farm in Parksburg.

The deadline for making reservations is July 7. Call Bob Hewitt at (610) 495-7927, or Dick Hostetter at (610) 857-2780, or Glenn Ranck at (610) 932-3309.

The cost is $4 per adult and $2 per children ages 3-10.

That includes a roast pork meal catered by Yost's Catering.

Judging dairy cattle classes is to begin in the morning. Don Hostetter is to serve as judge.

Guest speaker is to be Phil Jacquith, and there is to be a calf-drawing for youth aged 6-16.

The farm is located along Route 30, east of Route 10. It is the first farm on the left, traveling east on Route 30 from Route 10. For more information, call Glenn Ranck.

simple response curve — lots of high school science students do those in their science fair projects.

What ecology and biology questions does this lab study raise? It is posible that in most corn fields a sublethal rate of the Bt pollen may be present. Couple that with the fact that most cornfields have good to excellent weed control so that milkwee, is not found right in corn fields. What is factor of distance from the corn field and the pollen spread to the milkweed site? What do in-field studies show about the mortality of Monarchs? How much of an increase is there from the Bt pollen mortality compared to other sources of caterpillar pathogens and predators (the background mortality)? Are there any other important lepidoterans being affected? How old do the monarch caterpillars in the field have to be to be sensitive? Remember that the larger the caterpillar is, the less sensitive it is to the Bt toxin in the pollen. To paraphrase another sage called Paracelsus — "the dose makes the poison." What about the timing of milkweed emergence, the caterpillar's life cycle and the time of pollen shed? When, where and for how long do these three points overlap to give us a window? Lots of questions — no answers (yet). Milkweed was out in my fields for the past week but I am a long ways away from corn tasselling. Besides I did not plant Bt corn — not a problem. Corn in our area will not be knee high by the 4th of July due to the lack of rainfall we have had. But it will in Lancaster County. So there are obvious location effects and differences.

Then there are a whole separate group of questions that relate solely to the biochemistry of the Bt toxin. I'll only pose a single one. How long does the toxin actually remain viable in the pollen? Farmers know that the pollen itself is viable for only 12 - 36 hours after being shed from the tassel. Its viability depends on the temperature and humidity. Remember that the BT toxins are proteins that denature or break down — something every high school biology student also learns about.

In summary, we cannot relate Losey's lab results to the more intricate field questions. John Losey was the first researcher to publish data on the no-target effects of Bt corn technology. That makes him a pioneer in his field. (There is a pun I couldn't resist.) However, rest assured that he will not be the last. Like many lab studies, his work raises more questions than it answers, especially about what happens out in nature. Remember, Bt corn sales have not been overwhelmingly successful in our state. Only 8 percent of the seed sold is Bt corn because corn borer is not as big a pest problem here like it is down south. So even when the field data on monarchs comes in you will not be able to compare Kansas or Georgia to Pennsylvania.

P.S. This information didn't come as any surprise. Extension agent Chuck Gale and I discussed the pros and cons of biotechnology usage and the question of non-target effects with over 500 farmers this past winter during Penn State's series of pesticide training sessions. It is an example of how farmers who are licensed to apply restricted use chemicals and use other related biotechnology methods are required to keep ahead of the learning curve, thanks to the land grant university system. (I am sure you will hear a lot about it from the seed salesmen next winter.) The second issue of trade sanctions by the Europeans against the genetically engineered herbicide resistant crops we also predicted at that time — remember jokes about the banana wars? With that I am two for two, making my crystal ball predictions from last March — that makes it a good time to quit.

Dairy Options Pilot Program Design Offers Farmers Opportunity To Set Floor Price

and the government program is designed to help independent producers remain that way.

The DOPP program is not designed to guarantee producers a liveable income, but instead to teach a corps of farmers how to use the commodity trading marketplace to protect against losses.

The entire DOPP first meeting series was presented by a team representing the USDA RMA, the commodities trading industry, and the farming industry.

At the Lancaster Farm and Home Center meeting, the program was structured so that the morning session consisted of an explanation and overview of the DOPP program by USDA representatives.

The afternoon session began with a dairy farmer who already has been involved with trading contracts with the help of the USDA.

David Holzhauer of Meadow Spring Farm, an area dairy farmer, was selected in October 1997 to serve as a regional participant in a pre-program project. It was described as a mini-DOPP.

The pre-DOPP program was done in order to help establish peer experience, according to David Wiggins, regional service representative and an insurance management specialist with the USDA RMA.

Holzhauer's participation in the mini-DOPP was predicated on his agreeing to serve as a member of the team presenting the initial educational meetings in the full-DOPP.

Also on the afternoon slate of speakers was Jim Grahm, in charge of marketing for the Chicago Mercantile Exchange.

He explained the program basics and his outlook for dairy trading. Also, commodities trading industry representatives explained their system of contracts and trading.

A panel of brokers, who explained their services, responded to farmers' questions to end the day's educational session.

It was explained by USDA that for participating farmers, the DOPP is a one-time, six- to eight-month limited program that essentially provides cost-sharing funds to use "put" options available through the New York Coffee, Sugar and Cocoa Exchange and the Chicago Mercantile Exchange.

Both trading houses have offered dairy futures contracts and options contracts for several years with some success.

The DOPP program focuses on the use of "put" options; a trading contract that can be used by a farmer to lock-in a bottom price on certain weight of milk (100,000 pounds per contract at the CME), while not limiting his ability to receive higher market prices on the actual sale of his milk.

It's promoted as a form of insurance against severe drops in market price.

The way it works is that a dairy farmer, who knows that his monthly production (and thus his sale of milk) can be expected to be 100,000 pounds of milk (more or less), continues to sell his milk just as usual.

If he sells through a cooperative, for example, he continues to do that and receive his monthly milk check.

However, since the dairy farmer doesn't know how much he is going to get paid for that milk until after it is used, he is at high risk of losing money.

Lots of it.

The put option doesn't involve the sale of milk.

The put option involves the sale of risk.

For DOPP purposes, it is an offer by someone (risk taker) that, if he is paid a certain amount (the premium), he will pay out a certain amount if he isn't right that the USDA-announced BFP will not drop below a level set in the contract.

Someone who sells "put" options to farmers collects the premium money in exchange for the risk that he may have to pay out if the actual BFP price is less than what was projected in the put option contract.

The person who buys a put option risks the loss of the premium. (The level ranges, but generally less than $1 per hundredweight.)

The person who sells the put option risks having to pay out the full amount set in the put option.

For the farmer, the USDA considers the program to be risk management.

To understand the program, it is essential to understand what the federally determined Basic Formula Price (BFP) is, and how it is derived.

The USDA applies the formula, and help with understanding it should also be available through a local Extension office.

Given that the BFP is understood, a farmer has to know his cost of production and the relationship between the federally declared BFP and his milk check.

The difference between the two is the "basis."

If, for example, a farmer's cost of production is $12 per hundredweight, he may want to try to ensure he captures that amount in his actual paycheck, as a minimum.

Or he may decide to lock in at a lower level.

The reason to consider a lower level of lock-in has to do with the way the put options and the premiums are priced.

Futures traders can calculate and anticipate BFP fairly well, and are usually close to the actual USDA-declared BFP.

The premium price for a put option is based on the risk associated with the specific BFP price declared in the contract.

For example, if its January, and April BFP futures contracts seem to be settling around $12.50, a range of put option contracts are offered through the trading house reflecting that $12.50 BFP level, and several other levels, in 25-cent increments, up and down.

Therefore, a buyer of a put option has the ability to select a BFP put option based on the $12.50; as well as $12.75, $13, or $12.25, and $12.

The premium on the put option is what the farmer pays per hundredweight of milk volume to the seller of the put option.

For example, the premium for a put option at $12.50 may be 40-cents per hundredweight, and 30 cents for an option at $12.

The farmer considering purchasing a put option to protect his cash flow has to consider the factors that influence the price of milk and what the conditions are that affect those factors.

It's a guessing game.

If it seems that the BFP could drop by $1 or more per hundredweight below what the BFP futures traders are predicting through the price they establish through trading, then a dairy producer may want to figure out how much of a premium is reasonable to pay to lock in a put option at an acceptable level of return.

Those who participate in DOPP cannot use the government cost-share funds to purchase "put" options at prices higher than the projected basic formula price (BFP) at the time of the purchase of the option.

It works this way:

The futures market on BFP is set according to what traders consider will be the government-declared BFP for a given month. That amount changes with time and events.

For a dairy producer, the put options are paper-only contracts whereby he pays a premium to the right to sell his milk at a certain BFP.

While the right to purchase such options is open to anyone, the use by dairy farmers is best advised to be based upon actual production and sales volume.

In essence, it works this way: If the actual BFP is more than the anticipated BFP specified in the put option, the farmer sells his milk at the higher price and receives nothing for the put option.

The cost of buying the put option is to be incorporated as a business expense, such as purchasing insurance, and therefore can be deducted as a business expense.

The commission and premium are lost, but that amount is small compared to the protection that could be afforded.

If the actual BFP is well below the put option BFP, the farmer sells his milk, but then he also receives the cash from selling the put option, protecting cash flow.

The milk check still comes from the actual buyer of the milk. The options check comes from the commodity trading house.

During the meeting it was made clear that those selling such put options and those trading BFP futures contracts are for the most part shrewd and savy about dairy prices and trends and industry influences.

The trading houses attatch premiums on the options, depending upon the amount of risk.

A put option premium is attatched to a range of BFP possible prices available for purchase, in 25-cent increments.

For example, if March BFP futures were trading at $13.50, a DOPP-participating farmer could have purchased a put option on a range of possible BFP prices below $13.50.

(This is only through cost-sharing available through the DOPP. In reality, a farmer could purchase a higher put option, but this government program is designed for protections against steep drops in BFP, not for profit.)

The DOPP program is designed to allow farmers to set their own price floor, starting at 25 cents below the future option BFP and going down in 25-cent increments. (The lower the floor, the less the premium.)

Holzhauer talked about his personnal experiences and provided his thoughts on the use of the put options as a useable tool.

In brief, he said that the tool is useful, but not all the time. It should be used strategically, instead of automatically, he said.

and promotion — since taking over as agriculture secretary several years ago.

An overall theme carried through many of his public addresses has been preparing Pennsylvania agriculture for the next millenium.

As part of that, Hayes has stated that the Products for the Planet logo introduced last August during Penn State's annual Ag Progress Days event — an illustration of the Earth with four yellow arrows; two emanating from a symbol of Pennsylvania, two pointing into the state — represents the reality of agricultural trade in the immediate and forseable future: export and import.

A Vietnam veteran and former Army officer, former long-time Republican leader in the state House of Representatives, and a long-time supporter of agriculture and education, Secretary Hayes has also included in his public and private conversations this message: A country desirous of individual freedom and a stable democracy cannot afford to lose its ability to feed itself and retain its independence.

While perhaps not a message fully understood by the general population, Hayes's insight comes from his background and personal experience with societies and nations that have lost agrarian skills and abilities.

Furthermore a common strategy for overtaking a community of people otherwise strong in defense capacity is to starve them into submission.

While a basic military strategy for defeating a foe is to cut off food supplies, history is rife with stories of leaders of nations — enemies of individual freedoms — doing the same to their own people.

Without an effort to educate the public, as far as the United States is concerned, the threat of the loss of agricultural strength is real, according to Hayes.

In an effort to ensure the current and future strength of Pennsylvanians to remain free, as well as the rest of the United States' citizens, Hayes has said it is imperative that state government fulfill its mission and purpose of enabling agricultural and related enterprise.

Research is part of that.

Through the support and cooperation of the state General Assembly in establishing programs and funding, and with support and understanding from Gov. Tom Ridge, PDA operations have been transforming to meet existing agricultural needs as well as gearing up to use as well as introduce new technologies and support systems for agriculture.

Through the use of "stakeholder" advisory groups and committees, the current state-funded agricultural research program could carry its own logo: Projects with a purpose.

As an example, while the new state Diagnostic Laboratory was in need of upgrades for decades, efforts begun earlier came to full fruition under the Gov. Ridge Administration, and under Secretary Hayes and different management, it has regained accreditation for numerous tests required for the export of livestock, as well as inventing new tests.

Lab researchers have been gearing up to provide least-cost, maximum benefit testing protocol and new, less expensive testing procedures in order to achieve maximum effect for the state's and surrounding states' agricultural industries.

It is also working to create and develop tests for diseases for which good testing is not yet available, to provide a path for eventual success.

It is all about creating tools. New diseases can require new tools to disable them.

Funding for agricultural research is also part of the overall proactive effort to make state government a conduit to prosperity and economic well-being.

The Agricultural Research Symposium provided a forum for brief presentations on 15 different research projects involving topical, essential, and leading edge technology issues currently underway through the support of PDA funding.

In program design, presentations were limited to 15 minutes.

The topics included the economic impact of Pennsylvania agriculture; conflict resolution; abatement of agricultural odors; use of composted manure; the creation of an agricultural export guide to international markets; an update report on Johne's disease; vaccinces for porcine virus; E. coli bacteria in apples and cider; public perceptions of agricultural animals; reducing pesticides through Integrated Pest Management; risks of poultry flocks shedding salmonella; a new technology and less expensive diagnostic test for Bovine Virus Diarrhea; high tunnels for vegetable production; green mold in mushrooms; and the use of agricultural and food processor waste.

Each presentation consisted of explanations of the research projects, up-to-date progress reports, overall goals, projected cost-benefit ratios, and, if possible, timetables for results.

Each also served to indicate aggressive movement toward exporting, supporting business opportunities for individuals and companies, and protection and enhancement of agricultural (renewable) resources.

At the end of the symposium, Secretary Hayes introduced the FFA youth who were especially invited to attend, for at least two reasons: to have the opportunity to be exposed to the latest information in agricultural research; and to see for themselves the broad range of professions involved in the nation's agricultural sector, which translates into a wide range of future career possibilities.

While each of the presentations seemed to indicate strong promise,

DIRECT RETAIL Farm Marketing

JOHN BERRY
Penn State Extension
Marketing Agent

"I know this business inside out," Laura told me the week she started her new business. "I just don't have the foggiest idea of how to market it!"

It's a problem that almost everyone managing a business faces.

You can be the best farmer in the world, but if you don't know how to get the word out — how to market your product or service — there's no way you can get the customers you need.

Here are five essential steps to great marketing that doesn't cost a fortune.

1. What is your market?

Decide who your main customers are or will be. As a group, how old are they? Where do they live? How much money do they make? What kinds of jobs do they have and what are their interests? The better you can sketch a detailed profile of the kinds of people who will be your main customers, the better you'll fare in the next four steps.

2. What kinds of media do your main customers use?

Each type of media has its own target audience. Each radio station, newspaper, magazine, or TV program tries to interest a specific segment of the population. The trick is to match your main customers with the kinds of media they use.

A Top 40 radio station tries to reach teen-agers and 18- to 34-year-old women. The local newspaper may be geared to homeowners over the age of 35. An industry trade magazine might be read mostly by senior managers scattered all around the country. If you aren't sure what group a media outlet is targeting, ask their sales department. Remember that media isn't just TV and newspapers.

Effective media can be anything that conveys your message. Media choices range from million dollar commercials in the Super Bowl to a few free pens with your name on them.

3. Limit the media you use to what you can afford to use consistently.

The key to effective marketing is consistency. You have to hit the audience with your message again, and again, and again. Marketers use the Rule of Seven. Prospects must see or hear your message seven times before they consider buying. Don't blow your entire marketing budget on a one-shot media blitz. Choose aa less expensive type of media that you can afford to use week after week. That's how you get marketing success.

4. Sell the main benefit of your product or service. Make your marketing client-centered.

How does your product or service improve your customer's life? Talk to your customer from their own perspective. Does your product or service save them time? Make them healthier? Make them more attractive?

Your marketing should drive home this most important benefit as clearly and directly as possible. Customers buy benefits! When you advertise the features of your product or service, connect those features to the benefits they will bring the customer.

5. And finally, don't miss out on FREE publicity.

Radio, TV, newspapers, newsletters, and magazines are constantly on the lookout for good stories. Prospective customers will be impressed if a media outlet features a story on what you do. Is there something about you or your business that would interest other people? Is there something about your business that is newsworthy? Maybe you have useful information to share with others.

Consider sending a press release to your local newspaper. Better yet, make a phone call to the news desk. Radio DJs can often be persuaded to talk about your business, especially if you take them a free sample.

These are the five essential steps to effective marketing.

some are more user-specific than others.

For example, under development by the St. Joseph's University Center for Food Marketing, Dr. Nancy Childs gave an overview of a project, "Pennsylvania Feeds The World: An Export Guide To International Markets."

Childs is an associate professor of food marketing, and she discussed the goal of the project — to provide vastly increased opportunities for export marketing for all sizes of operations.

Started in October 1998, according to Childs the project is to provide three tangibles: a hardcopy reference guide that is to serve as an export primer; an interactive Website on the world wide web to link producers and buyers; and an advisory board to maintain direction and focus for the program.

"This project will provide assistance and guidance to make the export process easier and to identify new and expanded value-added export opportunities," she said.

She said the web site is to provide access to information according to export opportunity, geography, and commodity.

In more common terms, an "export opportunity" is essentailly notice of a request for information about suppliers of services and commodities, or notice of a pending export sale; "geography" relates to location of production facilities to shipping ports as well as other producers; and "commodity" is self-explanatory.

In a nutshell, the project is designed to bring together as much information as possible, in as easy to use a format as possible, to allow those seeking or contemplating exporting opportunities to "identify, evaluate, and access markets for existing products."

The concept is that through the interaction, it should be feasible for agricultural, forest product and food processing businesses to work together to seek out and fill orders for export.

In effect, it is to serve as a catalyst for trade, because it is to serve as a high-tech meeting place for those wanting to buy, sell, and perhaps coordinate sales efforts.

Coordinating sales efforts could include such scenarios as a group of cattle breeders meeting through the web page to discover a buyer for cattle and through cooperation provide enough animals to meet the order.

Given the right introductions and the luck to discover a market (buyer), it should be possible for different producers of the same product to share in production strength and to coordinate efforts on meeting needs for a sale.

As well, associated businesses not necessarily associated with the main sale, may be able to become involved through "value-added" types of business deals.

A "risk assessment matrix" has been created as well.

This "matrix" uses a number of indicators of conditions that could affect exporting success, and that could suggest high risk — such as the existance of armed conflict, terrorism, economic stability, the form of government and the regulations of the country where the buyer is based, as well as any pertinent and available history on solvency of the buyer and past dealings.

The matrix also includes assessments of existing market competitors, so that those contemplating exporting to certain markets can know what they are up against.

For example, a small corn syrup manufacture may not want to compete against Archer-Daniels Midland, but depending on strategies and abilities to work around perceived weaknesses in ADM's market supply operation, a small business could very well take over as supplier, or supplement it by offering something slightly more desirable to that market.

According to Childs, "The advisory board's role is to keep the program on track, to understand insights into practical, technical, and regulatory impasses to exporting."

The project involves a number of people and disciplines, and its $325,600 cost has the potential for a 15:1 return on investment, according to Childs.

As it is, the amount invested in the project, compared to the gross receipts of 1997 Pennsylvania forestry and food exports, represents .03 percent.

A chart supplied by Childs shows the projected timeline for accomplishment. The goal is to have the hardcopy export manual and web site ready for use in June 2000.

A market risk assessment, and a competitor assessment is to be completed in December.

PDA provided synopses of the other presentations:

• Economic Impact of Pennsylvania agriculture — According to Dr. Charles Abdalla, growth of Pennsylvania's rural population is creating change and placing pressure on agriculture. The rapidity of this change may find local communities without sufficient informational resources about the economic impact of agriculture on the community when making decisions that affect the industry. Dr. Abdalla's research is designed to develop an economic model that will increase the body of facts about the role of agriculture in rural communities and lend to improved decisions by community officials.

• Alternative Dispute Resolution — Conducted by Dr. John Becker with the Penn State University Department of Agriculture and Rural Affairs. As suburban development and traditional production agricultural zones come into contact, it has become all too common for conflict to develop between two communities. Becker has been developing model strategies that communities can use to help resolve disputes.

• Abatement of Agriculture Odors — Conducted by Dr. Charles Wysocki, of the Monell Chemical Senses Center. Odors from agricultural activities is a common source of conflict. Ongoing research is designed to develop a practical and economic program to ameliorate the odors.

Dairyman To Dairyman

GEORGE CUDOC
PA DHIA
Consulting
Dairyman

QUESTION: How do we begin efforts that would result in lower somatic cell counts in our herd? When will we need to comply with new standards of 400,000 SCC?

ANSWER: Somatic Cell Count standards have been on the discussion table for quite some time.

There has been talk that our dairy industry needs to catch up with the rest of the world and their standards for SCC.

Recently, I read that the National Conference on Interstate Milk Shipments took "no action" on the proposal out of the National Mastitis Council to lower legal limits of SCC to 400,000 from the current 750,000 limit.

Aside from what is legal or not, there are other considerations that benefit our bottom line by lowering the SCC in our herds.

Lowering SCC results in fewer dollars spent on treating cows that become clincially infected with mastitis. Along with this is a reduction in dollars spent to provide treatment of the more severe cases by a professional veterinarian.

With lowered SCC, our labor expenses then shift to something more profitable than caring for hospice cows and culling practices will shift away from the involuntary to voluntary.

We are now able to sell milk that would otherwise have to be discarded due to low quality or drug residues.

Lastly, and most importantly, we can ship more milk per dollar invested by reducing the nagging effects of subclinical mastitis. This can conservatively result in 1.5 pounds more milk per cow per day, just by lowering the linear SCC by 1.

At the very heart of reaching our goal in lowering SCC is the DHIA system.

Yes, we can establish good managment practices on our farms based on research, but you need to realize that research comes from recording measurements.

Within our own herds, we have the cows tell us where our management style needs to be better. We do this when we use our records.

The worst thing that can happen is that we blindly attack one problem by changing everything.

The result may be lower SCC, but if we do not know what really gave us results, we can slip right back into the same bad management.

One way to look at your records is to view a graph similar to the example provided (see graph), to see if trends occur during different times of the year.

When looking at this graph, concentrate on the differences between summer and winter months.

Things such as the environment can influence SCC.

Do we have good fly control?

Should we step up stall management when it becomes hot and humid?

What about milking procedure differences when we are busy in the fields?

More questions could be asked, but it is important to note that SCC problems are not constant during the course of the year.

We may want to look at some other things like SCC differences between groups, or maybe we need to look at SCC differences between lactations.

Once we answer these questions, we have a better chance of solving our problems.

Tools offered through PA DHIA are available for dairymen to use.

The majority of my time is spent doing these types of record interpretations. Should you need help in this area, feel free to contact me.

Maryland DHIA Report For May

The May Dairy Herd Improvement information for dairy herds from the DHI processing center in Provo, Utah. The list includes herds from Maryland, Pennsylvania, and West Virginia. The information is listed by herd name, county association, number of cows in the herd and the average production per cow in the herd based on Energy Corrected Milk (ECM). ECM combines milk production and components.

The ECM formula is: (7.2 x lbs. protein) + (12.95 x lbs. fat) + (.327 x lbs. milk). To be included, the herd must have 10 cows averaging 65 pounds or more of ECM per cow, per day. All herds reported are on official DHI or DHIR test. Also listed are the top ten herds in Maryland for the Brown Swiss, Guernseys, and Jerseys, and the top seven herds for Ayrshires.

Guests explore the stone arch cellar at Rocky Acre Farm Bed and Breakfast. The stone structure that dates back to the 1700s exudes a historical aura with its stone fireplaces, wooden corner cupboards with butterflied shelves, wide-plank oak floors, and wide window sills.

The idea to open their home to guests began in 1965 according to Eileen Benner. In addition to the appeal of a working dairy operation, the farm's intrigue includes the rumor that it was part of the Underground Railroad during the 1800s.

Vacationing At Rocky Acres

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

MOUNT JOY (Lancaster Co.) — "Hey, look at this," an 11-year-old visitor to Rocky Acre Farm shrieked. "This is where the slaves were hiding."

"Hey, here are some bullet holes," his cousin yelled. "Someone must have found them hiding and shot them."

The stone arch cellar that the visitor and his friend were exploring was not the runaway slaves' hiding spot, but Rocky Acre Farm explodes with mystery and adventure for children and adults.

The working dairy farm is a Bed and Breakfast delight for families.

Children don't want to leave. And neither do parents.

"We came here to see the tourist's sites, but there is so much to do on the farm that we ended up spending three days here," said a recent guest.

It's no wonder families don't want to leave. After a breakfast of scrambled eggs, homefries, waffles smothered in freshly-made strawberry jam, turkey ham balls, chocolate milk and other breakfast specialties, Benner tells the kids to jump onto a golf cart with him. They meander around the property, sometimes Benner drives and sometimes he lets the older children drive under his watchful eye. Later they fill up the train that sets in the front lawn. The train cars are made from 100-gallon drums, cut out for children to hop inside as Benner engineers it around the property with a riding lawn mower.

Miniature horse rides are offered to the many young vistors, followed by a hay ride for children and adults, and tractor rides. Wagons, tricycles, tractors, and other riding toys abound. Fat cats and a friendly dog wander around the grounds and into the miniature playhouse where children play. Fishing and boating are available in the creek that meanders through freshly-mowed meadows. Old trees provide plenty of shade for those who want to rock or swing on the front porch.

This Dairy of Distinction farm with modern up-to-date equipment also offers the "Old McDonald Farm" entrenched in people's memories. Children are encouraged to hunt eggs in the hen house, bottle feed calves, pet the pygmy goats, and tour the barns.

The farm has been in the family for 75 years. When Eileen's grandfather purchased the farm, he bought it for it's "high land," considered perfect for an orchard. When the Benners took over the operation in 1959, they cut down the trees and began dairy and crop farming on the 90 tillable acres of the 130 acres.

The stone structure, built in the early 1700s, has two 1800s additions, and another one added on by the Benners in 1974. A rustic windmill still stands by the house.

The painted yellow barn with country blue trim was built in the early 1900s after the original barn burned down.

When the Benners first moved on the farm, they were busy from morning to night, milking cows, raising tomatoes, crop farming, and driving school bus on the side. In 1965, the couple had four children, when Eileen thought of a way to make them even busier.

Benner recounts, "One morning I came in after milking and breakfast wasn't ready. That was unusual. I called my wife but all I heard was hammering upstairs."

Benner climbed the stairs to inquire about what his wife thought she was doing.

Eileen replied. "We're going to invite people here for farm vacations, and I'm getting the room ready."

"Like fun," Benner replied.

Thirty-four years later, he confides, "She won most of the arguments since then too."

Benner isn't complaining. "I have more fun than the kids do," he said of the hours he spends entertaining the visitors on the farm, "This is my relaxation."

The Benners went on to have six children, who are now all married. But the eight bedrooms are constantly in use for guests who frequent the popular bed and breakfast.

"We had some little kids who came here years ago. Now they're grown up and have their own kids, and they're bringing them here," Benner said.

With a hardy laugh, Benner said, "I'll never forget the boy who was about nine years old, who looked up at me and asked, 'When you die, can I have this farm?'"

Back in those days, Eileen not only prepared a big breakfast for guests but also cooked the evening meal for the guests. That stopped when their fifth child was born.

Over the years, many changes have evolved. They started out with one bathroom. Now all the rooms have private baths and air conditioning.

Five employees help with cooking, cleaning, laundry, and maintenance to keep things running smoothly for the guests.

"It's a 24-hour a day job," Eileen said."

Eileen and employees are so accustomed to the repetitive kitchen preparations, that they bantered good naturedly back and forth as one or the other answered the constantly ringing telephone while continuing to fry bacon, scramble eggs, and dish up food.

An old-fashioned dinner bell rung at 8:15 a.m. called the guests to breakfast. About 30 guests gathered at the large table that stretched the full length of the dining room. At one end, the dining room has a large angled stone fireplace and a large wooden corner cupboard with butterflied shelves. Two similar corner cupboards are in other rooms. A hand-braided wall to wall wool rug covered the floor. Many family heirlooms are displayed throughout the rambling farmhouse.

Numerous heirlooms add touches to the Victorian-style rooms. The home has several original corner fireplaces fashioned from stone on the property, wide window sills, wide-plank oak floors.

As hostess for the day, Shannon Shertzer began the breakfast with a verbal prayer and then talked about the menu. Standard fare for breakfast includes homecanned "Slappy Peaches" and fresh strawberry preserves.

Shannon explained procedures for the day and the do's and don'ts around the farm. Guests were introduced and talked about why they had selected the farm as their vacation spot.

"I'm a people person and if no one is around, I think this place is dead," Eileen said.

With guests, several of the Benners' seven grandchildren, workman, and hired help going in and out, it's difficult to imagine Stony Acre Farm as ever appearing "dead."

Despite the constant hum of activity, the place maintains a comfortable, relaxed, and happy atmosphere.

"I think the appeal is that this is an actual working dairy farm," Eileen said of the popular bed and breakfast.

The Benners' third son Arlin and his wife Deborah now do the farming and have bought an adjoining farm named Yippee! Farms. They milk 400 cows and raise 185 young stock.

Eileen and Galen still own Rocky Acres, live on the grounds, and consider the bed and breakfast their main job. Galen also fits in carpentry work, but the guests come first.

"We have it easy now toward what we did in the beginning," Benner said.

As the children bottle feed a calf, Benner tells them, "You gotta keep her a little hungry. If you give her too much, she'll get diarrhea and it'll kill her."

"Is that right?" a parent asks "It's amazing what you learn here."

Bottle feeding a calf isn't as easy as it looks, said they guest. She had to hang on to the large bottle as the calf pulled backward.

Children at Rocky Acres enjoy riding around the property on this homemade train. "I have more fun than the kids do," Galen Benner said of the hours he spends entertaining them on the farm.

Benner explains that althougl artifical insemination is used o1 he herd, a clean up bull also is ieeded.

He tells them how corn, alfalfa, and barley are crop farmed.

When a guest asks if the ground produces good yields, Benner said they get about 150 bushels of corn per acre.

Cambria County Holds Pageant

EBENSBURG (Cambria Co.) — The Cambria County Dairy Promotion Committee celebrated June Dairy Month, by holding a coronation ceremony at the Penn Gables Restaurant, Ebensburg, on June 15. Master of Ceremonies for the evening was Bob Brown, Somerset County. Judges were Jennifer Metzler, Blair County; Charlene Courtney, Somerset County; and Frank Higdon, Blair County.

Brandy Krug, daughter of Don and Shane Krug, Ashville, was crowned The 1999 Cambria County Dairy Princess.

She graduated in June from Penn Cambria High School, and plans to attend Juniata College in the fall and study Biology.

Brandy is an active member in People to People Student Ambassador, Cambria County Swine Club, teacher for CCD, and President of the Cambria County Goat Club. She also works for a local dairy farm.

Stephanie Dixon, daughter of Gerald Hogue and Janet Dixon, Ebensburg, was crowned the 1999 Cambria County Alternate Dairy Princess.

Stephanie has completed her sophomore year at Penn Cambria High School, where she participated in Student Council, jazz, ballet, pointe, tutoring, ski club, and the Cambria County 4-H Dairy Club.

Six young ladies were named dairy ambassadors for Cambria County. They will be traveling with the dairy princess throughout Cambria County promoting the dairy industry.

Ambassadors include Marcia Itle, daughter of Andrew and Delores Itle, Loretto; Lindsey Harteis, daughter of James and Adena Harteis, Ebensburg; Stacey Strittmatter, daughter of Joseph and Margaret Strittmatter, Ebensburg; Amber Kalwasinski, daughter of Jeff and Brenda Kalwasinski, Portage; Katie Krug, daughter of Donald and Shane Krug, Ashville; and Tessa Strittmatter, daughter of Joseph and Margaret Strittmatter, Ebensburg.

Also recognized at the coronation was the 1998 Cambria County Dairy Princess Bridget Farabaugh, for the outstanding year promoting the dairy industry and her efforts in bridging the gap between rural and urban people.

To schedule one of these young ladies to represent the industry call the Cambria County Dairy Promotion Committee at (814) 886-8815.

July 4th Entertaining Tips

• String red and blue Christmas lights from your clothesline or use red, white and blue paper napkins to create a festive atmosphere.

• Serve mixed fresh berries such as strawberries and blueberries over vanilla ice cream for a quick and colorful dessert.

• Stop by your local party store and purchase miniature U.S. flags. Insert the flags in a bowl of potato salad as a fun centerpiece or insert in slices of watermelon at each place setting.

• Let your guests get creative: set up a burger bar for guests to customize their burgers. Set out plates of all the best fixings: lettuce, tomatoes, sliced onions, grilled mushrooms, and tasty homemade condiments like All-American All-In-One Picnic Sauce.

part of the Underground Railroad, the Benners said that during remodeling efforts, they did indeed find a secret room hid beneath the third story eaves, where it is rumored that slaves were hidden while fleeing northward to Canada. The Underground Railroad was a shifting network of stations along many routes northward, but no written history exists to confirm that the Benner farm was indeed a stop of the Underground Railroad. However the colonial-style farmhouse is situated about four miles from the Susquehanna River and nearby to hillside caves where runaway slaves are said to have been hidden.

The farm's intrigue doesn't cease with exciting tales of runaway slaves and secret hiding places. It's a place for kids of all ages to explore and relax.

Make July 4th Sizzle

How do you spell fun this Independence Day?

BBQ!

In addition to the all-American barbecue, you'll need some frozen treats and mouthwatering beverages to cool off.

So play it cool. Treat your friends and family to these delicious treats just right for celebrating.

Looking for more great grilling recipes and tips? Send a stamped, self-addressed, business-size envelope to Kikkoman Kitchens, July 4th ROP, 1050 Battery St., San Francisco, CA 94111.

For a free grilling brochure that will spice up any reunion, send a SASE to Where There's Pork, There's Fire, NPPC, P.O. Box 10383, Des Moines, IA 50306.

Send for a free recipe booklet using Lea & Perrins Worcestershire Sauce to Lea & Perrins Recipe Booklet, 15-01 Pollitt Dr., Fair Lawn, NJ 07410.

FROZEN MIXED BERRY PIE

14-ounce can sweetened condensed milk

½ cup lemon juice from concentrate

1½ -2 cups assorted fresh berries (raspberries, blueberries, blackberries, etc.)

4 cups frozen light whipped topping, thawed

8- or 9-inch baked pastry shell or chocolate graham cracker pie crust

Stir together condensed milk and lemon juice until well combined. Mix in berries. Fold in whipped topping. Spoon mixture into ready-made pie crust. Freeze 5 hours or until set. Let stand 30-40 minutes before serving. Garnish as desired.

ROASTED GARLIC TERIYAKI & MUSHROOM BURGERS

2 pounds lean ground beef

⅓ cup plus 1 tablespoon roasted garlic teriyaki marinade and sauce

¾ teaspoon black pepper

8-ounces mushrooms, sliced

1 tablespoon vegetable oil

8 thin slices onions

8 slices Monterey Jack cheese

8 hamburger buns, split and toasted

Mayonnaise

Thoroughly combine beef, ⅓ cup roasted garlic teriyaki marinade & sauce and pepper; shape into 8 patties. Cook patties on grill 4 to 5 inches from hot coals 5 minutes.

Meanwhile, saute mushrooms in hot oil in large skillet over medium heat 4 minutes.

Remove from heat and stir in remaining 1 tablespoon roasted garlic teriyaki marinade and sauce. Turn patties over and cook 5 minutes longer (for medium), or to desired doneness, topping with onion and cheese slices during last few minutes of cooking time. To serve, spread bun halves with mayonnaise; place burgers on bottom halves and spoon mushroom mixture equally over patties.

GRILLED PORTABELLO MUSHROOMS

⅓ cup olive oil

1 tablespoon finely minced shallots or onion

Salt and pepper to taste

4 large portabello mushrooms

Minced parsley leaves or garnish

Clean and remove stems of mushrooms. Cut mushrooms in half if desired.

Start barbecue grill, place rack 4-inches from heat source.

Whisk together olive oil, shallots, salt and pepper. Brush mushrooms with half mixture. Place mushrooms on grill, top of cap away from heat. Grill 6 to 8 minutes. Brush mushrooms with remaining oil mixture and turn over on grill and cook for another 7 to 10 minutes or until tender and nicely browned. Garnish with parsley and serve.

Featured Recipe

Get in the July 4th spirit with the Berry Patirotic Trifle.

This red, white, and blueberry trifle is sure to stir your patriotic spirit—not to mention cravings for something sweet to eat.

Or, how about an easy no-bake pie? Simply combine sweetened condensed milk with lemon juice. And, voila, a magical creamy filling will appear—perfect for the Frozen Mixed Berry Pie.

BERRY PATRIOTIC TRIFLE

1¾ cups fresh blueberries, divided

14-ounce can sweetened condensed milk, divided

1 tablespoon lemon juice from concentrate

10¾ -ounce loaf frozen pound cake

4-ounce package instant lemon pudding mix

1½ cups milk

½ cup sour cream

1½ cups fresh raspberries

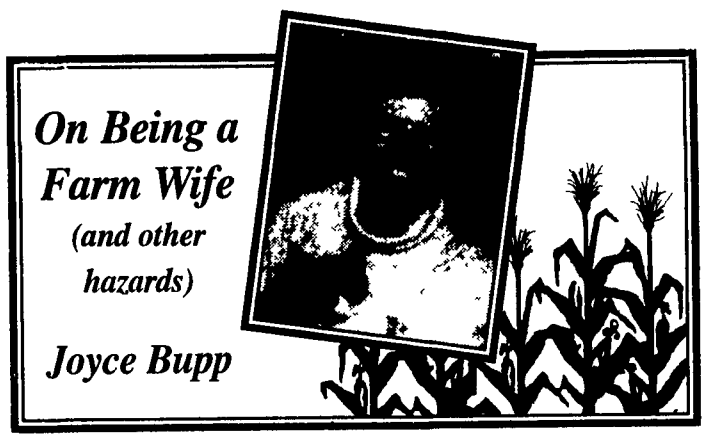
Star garnish (recipe follows), optional

With fork, mash ¼ cup blueberries in small bowl. Stir in 2 tablespoons condensed milk and 1 tablespoon lemon juice. Halve pound cake horizontally. Spread blueberry mixture on cut side of bottom of cake; add cake top. Cut lengthwise into 4 strips; cut crosswise into 1-inch-thick pieces.

With mixer, beat remaining condensed milk, pudding mix and milk in large bowl. Fold in sour cream. Set aside ¼ cup pudding mixture.

In 2- to 2½ -quart clear glass bowl, layer half of the pound cake pieces, half of the remaining blueberries, and half of the raspberries. Repeat layers. Spoon on reserved pudding mixture. Cover and chill at least 2 hours. Store leftovers in refrigerator.

Star Garnish: Place 1-ounce white baking bar in heavy small saucepan. Heat over low heat until melted, stirring constantly. Tint melted white baking bar with red paste food coloring. Pipe mixture into star shapes on waxed-paper-lined baking sheet. Let stand until dry. Carefully peel from waxed paper.



Dear Rachel,

I hope the fireworks don't keep you awake. But they probably won't. You seem to be a pretty sound sleeper (but not as sound a sleeper at night, much to your mom's exhaustion).

But, then, when you're two weeks old, you need to be a sound sleeper. That's a baby's job. To sleep and eat and ... execute diapers. If that's the politically correct terminology.

We really thought you might wait that one last hour to arrive on Father's Day. And on your great grandmother's 80th birthday. You however, have already demonstrated that you will be your own person and had different ideas. And your mom was certainly in no frame of mind at that point to wish to prolong your arrival for another hour. So you get to celebrate your own special day—at least within this family circle—absent of others' earlier claims to it. Perhaps that's best, anyway.

Birthdays are always special and it's neat that your first major celebration—though you will little care about it this year—is our nation's honoring of it's own painful birthing. The fireworks you will probably snooze right on through are symbolic of celebratory candles on our collective national birthday cake. Of course, from the snugness of your own tiny bed here on the other side of our farm, the fireworks will mostly just sound like distant thunder.

How lucky you are, Rachel, to have been born into this country whose birth we celebrate with these colorful, noisy, aerial explosions. Because of the fate of your birth into this free nation, you can look forward to a childhood where you will be warm and sheltered and fed and clothed. It may not be in the style of the world's royalty or the top ten on the Richest Families list, but adequate and comfortable within the realm of us common country folks.

Like your big brothers—as ages four and two are "big" compared to two weeks—you will have the freedom to roam the farm and fields as you grow, within our adamant limitations on safety and where little kids are allowed to venture. There is plenty of green grass on which to roll around, mud in which to dig, streams in which to dabble, and plenty of cats and calves to play with. We hope we will always be able to take time with you to plant sunflowers in the garden, feed the fish, explore the meadow, build snowmen, jump in piles of leaves and get grubby in the dirt, playing with the toy farm equipment as your brothers so love to do.

If we could, though, in honor of both our nation's and your birthdays, we would make some wishes for our country as we blow out those symbolic fireworks candles.

We would wish for our children and grandchildren that our national quest for prosperity and acquisition of "things" take a backseat to families finding ways to share more time together. We would wish that all children were instilled with a sense of moral discipline, personal responsibility, community service, and tolerance for those who may look or think a little differently than ourselves.

We would wish that the only worries of school children would be the nature of catching the bus and their homework assignments, rather than catching a bullet or a drug problem.

We would wish our children more reading for pleasure and less mindless television viewing, more spur-of-the-moment play and less adult-directed organization, more wandering the outdoors than the Internet.

But our "grand finale" wish for you, and for all our nation's children, is that you may grow up in the peace and freedom we celebrate today.

So snoose on through this national birthday, little Rachel (hopefully, more at night) and we will enjoy Independence Day fireworks together more fully when you're a bit older.

Love, Grandma and Grandpa.

Elio Chiarelli Leads State FFA

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Elio Chiarelli Jr. was elected 1999-2000 state president of the Pennsylvania FFA Association at the 70th Annual Summer Convention in conjunction with State FFA Activities Week, June 15-17 at Penn State.

As president of the Pennsylvania association, he, along with the other nine members of the state officer team, will lead the Pennsylvania FFA in coordinating and conducting the statewide activities as well as representing the association at FFA and agricultural functions throughout the state.

Elio is the son of Elio and Nancy Chiarelli of McDonald.

Elio is the third state FFA president from Washington County and the second from the H.G. Parkinson FFA Chapter at Fort Cherry High School. Harold Hutchison, retired supervisor at the Western Area Career and Technology Center, served as state FFA president in 1933 and Laurie Duran, a member of the H.G. Parkinson Chapter at Fort Cherry, served as state president in 1984-85.

Elio Chiarelli Jr.

Elio is the eighth state FFA officer from Fort Cherry High School under the guidance of chapter adviser T. Lee Carter.

Elio placed first in the state Prepared FFA Public Speaking Contest. He was in competition with nine other contestants from throughout Pennsylvania. He earned the opportunity to compete in state competition by placing first in the county, area and western Pennsylvania regional contests earlier in the school year.

As state winner, Elio will receive $350 and a plaque and gold certificate and he will represent Pennsylvania at the National FFA Prepared Public Speaking Contest in Louisville, Ky. in late October.

Elio is the fifth member of the H.G. Parkinson FFA Chapter to win the state Prepared Public Speaking Contest under the supervision of chapter adviser T. Lee Carter.

Other state winners from Fort Cherry were Donald Carter in 1983, Heather Moszynski in 1991, Christy Duran in 1993, and Danielle Cowden in 1996.

Answers to recipe requests should be sent to the same address.

QUESTION — A busy mom wants soup recipes to can. Please include specific instructions for pressure canning. Also indicate whether or not the soup should be diluted when serving.

QUESTION — N. King, Lititz, would like instructions on how to prepare a pig stomach. What vegetables should she use and are they cooked ahead of time. How long should the stomach be baked after it is prepared?

QUESTION — A reader would like a recipe for canning hot peppers in oil but without a tomato or catsup base.

QUESTION — N.E.K. wants a recipe for a cake icing (not the cooked kind) that isn't so sweet, like that sold at Sam's Club.

QUESTION — Joan Miller, Intercourse, wants to know if the cream puff recipe that includes a cream or pudding filling is the same recipe used to make fancy puff sandwiches. If not, does anyone have a recipe for the puff sandwiches?

QUESTION — Cindy Pudliner, New Holland, would like the recipe for the biscuit sold at the restaurant called Joey's, which was located beside the Comfort Inn in New Holland. She used to order the Sausage and biscuits for breakfast. The biscuit made a light, fluffy cake biscuit.

QUESTION — Debbie Reynolds, Wrightsville, wants to know if anyone has a recipe for pumpkin butter similar to that made at Kitchen Kettle.

QUESTION — A.W. Good, East Earl, would like to know where to buy Kosher Jel. A previous source is no longer available because the plant burned down.

QUESTION — D. Shultz, Halifax, would like a recipe for a caramel custard pie.

QUESTION — Barb Gaugher, Mansfield, wanted a recipe for Kosher barrel pickles like those sold at deli counters.

QUESTION — Brenda Houser, Middletown, would like a recipe to make cookies that taste like the ones served at Shady Maple Smorgasboard. The varieties that she likes are Chocolate Chip Truffle, which has a chocolate batter with chocolate chips in it and a soft chocolate center, and Peanut Butter Truffle, which has a peanut butter batter with chopped nuts and a soft peanut butter filling.

QUESTION — Marilyn DeMeyer, Hilton, N.Y., would like recipes for salt rising bread.

QUESTION — Shirley Ream, Criston, Ohio, would like a recipe on how to can ring bologna either by waterbath or pressure cooker or both.

QUESTION — Pam Bange, Hanover, would like recipes for using shitake mushrooms and portabella mushrooms.

QUESTION — G. Minkle, Wayne, would like a recipe for hot pepper cabbage relish, which she had clipped from this column several years ago.

QUESTION — K. B., York Springs, would like a recipe to make rotisserie chicken that tastes like that made by Rutters' Mini Market.

QUESTION — Carrie Sponseller, Gettysburg, would like a recipe for Snow Flake Cookie mix in a jar. It includes white chocolate chips and macadamia nuts that are layered in a quart jar.

QUESTION — Several years ago, J. Rouse clipped a recipe from this section for maple syrup pork chops. Her family loves the recipe, but she lost it. Anyone else clip the recipe? Send it in so we can reprint it.

QUESTION — Lynn Rossi, Lititz, would like a recipe for marinated mushrooms, which are made without cooking oil and sold by S. Clyde Weaver, East Petersburg.

Make July 4th Sizzle

BERRY-PINEAPPLE SLUSH

20-ounce can pineapple chunks packed with juice, drained
2 cups fresh or frozen unsweetened raspberries or strawberries
1 cup orange juice
¼ cup lemon juice from concentrate
2 tablespoons sugar
1 bottle ginger ale, chilled

In blender container or food processor bowl, combine pineapple, berries, orange juice, lemon juice, and sugar. Cover; blend until smooth. Press through sieve; discard seeds. Transfer to 2-quart square baking dish. cover and freeze at least 24 hours. To serve, let stand at room temperature 20 to 30 minutes. With spoon, scrape across surface and place slush in glasses. Add ginger ale; stir to mix.

QUESTION — Mrs. Dale Burkhart, Narvon, misplaced a recipe for a seasoning mixture to rub into beef roast before roasting. She recalls that some of the ingredients included instant coffee granules, beef bouillon, salt and pepper.

ANSWER — Linda Garber, New Ringgold, wanted a recipe for vegetable cream cheese to spread on bagels. Thanks to Betty Light, Lebanon, for sending this simple recipe.

Vegetable Cream Cheese

8-ounces cream cheese, softened
3-4 tablespoons dried vegetable flakes*

Place softened cream cheese in a medium bowl. Break up flakes a little more in a small food processor and stir into cream cheese. Place in airtight containers and refrigerate.

The vegetable flakes I use are from Spice Classics, which are available in most supermarkets. The flakes add great flavor to rice, chicken, beef broth, etc.*

ANSWER — Barb Fox wanted to know how to make blueberry pig. Thanks to Karen of Ohio for sending a recipe that her family uses. She doesn't include roasting instructions but the recipe can be adapted to recipes for roasting pig.

Blueberry Pig

Small pig approximately 90 pounds

A few days ahead of time, have the local butcher prepare the pig for the roasting spit.

While the roasting is in process, prepare the following glaze:

20-ounce jar blueberry jam
¼ cup lemon juice
2 teaspoons cinnamon

Heat mixture to boiling, stirring constantly. Boil and stir 3 minutes.

With two hours remaining in the total cooking time (time will vary based on size of pig) begin basting the pig. It will be necessary to use a long handled brush to baste since the fire will be very hot. A squeeze bottle also works well to get the glaze over all the pig. Baste the pig every 20-25 minutes or until the pig has finished cooking. If the fire gets too hot, the glaze will burn. Be careful.

Save any remaining glaze to use as sauce for the roasted pork.

ANSWER — Mary Lockard wanted a recipe for rice cereal candy that includes Karo and peanut butter. Thanks to Mrs. Weaver, Leola, and to B. Light, Lebanon, for sending a recipe.

Rice Krispie Squares

1 cup granulated sugar
1 cup white Karo
1 cup peanut butter
6 cups rice crispy cereal
1 cup chocolate chips
1 cup butterscotch chips

Mix sugar and Karo together in saucepan and bring to a boil. Stir in peanut butter. Pour over cereal and mix well. Press into baking pan. Combine chocolate chips and butterscotch chips and melt. Spread over the top.

Peanut Butter Cereal Treats

6 cups ready-to-eat cereal*, rice crispy, cherrios, etc.
¾ cup granulated sugar
¾ cup light or dark corn syrup
¾ cup chunky or smooth peanut butter

Line a 9x13-inch baking pan with plastic wrap, set aside.

Spray inside large bowl with non-stick spray. Place the dry cereal into bowl (*if using flaked cereal, increase to 7½ cups). In a medium saucepan, combine sugar and corn syrup, bring to a boil; boil 1 minute. Remove from heat, stir in peanut butter until completely melted; pour over the dry cereal, stir cereal until well coated.

Transfer to prepared pan, cool 15-20 minutes. Invert onto cutting board and cut into desired size portions.

ANSWER — R. Himmelberger, Fleetwood, wanted to know where to buy Dijon dry salad mix used to make honey mustard pretzels. Thanks to R. Blessing who wrote that when she could no longer find the mix, she called the Good Seasons company. They said that they no longer make the Dijon dry salad mix. Anyone have a homemade recipe?

ANSWER — Geneva Martin wanted to know where to purchase Perma Flow, phosphate, and speed cure to make pork roll. Thanks to a reader who wrote that those items can be purchased at butcher shops.

(Turn to Page B9)

GRILLED TERIYAKI GINGER CHICKEN SANDWICH

½ cup teriyaki marinade and sauce
¼ cup finely chopped green onions and tops
1 tablespoon grated frsh ginger root
6 boneless, skinless chicken breast halves
6 French rolls, split and toasted
Mayonnaise

Combine teriyaki marinade and sauce, green onions, and ginger; pour over chicken in large plastic food storage bag. Press air out of bag; close top securely. Turn bag over several times to coat all pieces well. Refrigerate 45 minutes, turning bag over once. Remove chicken from marinade; discard marinade. Cook chicken on grill 4 to 5 inches from hot coals about 6 minutes on each side, or until chicken is no longer pink in center. To serve, spread both halves of rolls with mayonnaise; place chicken on bottom halves and cover with top halves.

Kikkoman

POTATO SALAD

6 to 8 medium potatoes
½ pound sliced bacon
1 cup water
½ cup vinegar
½ cup granulated sugar
¾ teaspoon salt
1½ tablespoon cornstarch dissolved in 3 tablespoons water
¾ cup diced onion
3 ribs celery, diced
¼ cup shredded carrot
3 large, hard-cooked eggs, diced
Parsley for garnish

In a large pot, cover potatoes with salted water, cook until tender, cool and dice into large bowl.

Dice bacon and fry over medium heat, stirring frequently, until crisp but not burnt. Remove from pan onto paper towel to drain. Remove all but 3 tablespoons bacon fat from pan. Return to heat, add 1 cup water, scraping bottom of pan. Add vinegar and sugar and bring to a boil. Stir in salt and diluted cornstarch, cook until thickened. Remove from heat and cool.

Add onions, celery, carrots, hard cooked egg and bacon to the potatoes. Pour dressing over top and gently stir to coat all ingredients.

Refrigerate overnight for flavors to marry. Garnish with parsley sprigs.

B. Light
Lebanon

BACKYARD BARBECUE SPARERIBS

4 pounds pork spareribs, approximately 2 slabs
Salt and pepper, to taste
1 cup catsup
¼ cup worcestershire sauce
1½ cups cherry cola soft drink
¼ cup vinegar
2 teaspoons paprika
2 teaspoons chili powder
1 medium onion, finely chopped

Cut rib slabs in half. Rub surface of ribs with salt and pepper. Prepare banked, medium-hot coals. Grill ribs over indirect heat for 1½ -2 hours, in covered grill, turning occasionally.

Combine remaining ingredients in a saucepan and simmer 10-15 minutes. Brush ribs generously with sauce. Cook ribs for an additional 30 minutes, basting and turning once or twice.

Servings: 4.

Cook's Question

ANSWER — A. Zimmerman, Denver, wrote that she lost a recipe for pie that combined rhubarb with sour cherries. Thanks to Mrs. Gerald Shaner, Hughesville, for sending a recipe.

Cherry Rhubarb Pie

2 cups finely chopped rhubarb
1 can cherry pie filling
¾ cup sugar
2½ tablespoons tapioca

Mix together ingredients and let stand 15 minutes. Put into pie shell. Bake at 400 degrees for 40 minutes.

ANSWER — Karen Kinnane, Shartlesville, wanted some good recipes for rhubarb jelly, jam or butter. Thanks to Mrs. Gerald Shaner, Hughesville, for sending recipes.

Rhubarb Jam

4½ cups fully ripe rhubarb, washed
1 cup water
6½ cups sugar
1 box fruit pectin
½ teaspoon butter
Few drops red food coloring (optional)

Finely chop rhubarb. Do not peel. Place in 4-quart saucepan. Add 1 cup water. Bring to boil. Reduce heat, cover and simmer 2 minutes or until rhubarb is soft. Measure 4½ cups into 6- or 8-quart saucepan.

Stir fruit pectin into rhubarb, add butter. Measure sugar into another bowl. Bring rhubarb to a full rolling boil on high heat, stirring constantly. Quickly stir in sugar. Return to full rolling boil and boil exactly one minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat. Skim off any foam. Add food coloring. Ladle into sterilized jelly jars.

Strawberry-Rhubarb Jam

1 quart strawberries
1½ pounds fully ripe rhubarb
½ cup water
6 cups sugar
1 box fruit pectin
½ teaspoon butter

Stem and thoroughly crush strawberries, one layer at a time. Measure 2¼ cups into 6- or 8-quart saucepan. Finey chop rhubarb, do not peel. Place in 2-quart saucepan; add ½ cup water. Bring to boil. Reduce heat; cover and simmer 2 minutes or until rhubarb is soft. Measure 1¾ cups into strawberry saucepot.

Measure sugar into separate bowl. Scrape excess sugar from cut with spatula to level for exact measure. Stir fruit pectin into fruit in saucepot. Add butter. Bring to full rolling boil and boil exactly one minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat. Skim off any foam with metal spoon.

Ladle quickly into hot sterilized jars, filling to within ⅛ -inch from tops. Wipe jar rims and threads. Cover with two-piece lids. Screw bands tightly. Invert jars 5 minutes, then turn upright. After jars are cool, check seals.

Makes about 7 cups.

Get A Close-Up Look At Government

ALEXANDRIA, Va. — No one knows better than farmers how frustrating government regulations can be. And, while many think there is nothing that one person can do, maybe there is.

ANSWER — Here is a recipe using parmesan cheese utilizing homemade parmesan made from half cow and half goat milk. The recipe is from Margaret Zittel, an expert in making many varieties of homemade cheeses from cow, goat, and sheep milk. If you are interested in taking cheese making classes, call her at (215) 258-5149.

Spinach And Cheese Stuffed Tomatoes

6 large ripe tomatoes or equivalent
1 bunch fresh spinach, washed, dried, coarsely chopped
6-ounces ricotta cheese
6-ounces parmesan cheese, grated
½ cup chopped parsley
2 garlic cloves, finely chopped
2 teaspoons chopped capers, or to taste
1 tablespoon olive oil
1 teaspoon anchovy paste (optional)

Preheat oven to 400 degrees.

Tomatoes may be boiled and peeled or left with skin intact. Cut off top half and scoop out seeds. Place tomatoes in baking dish brushed with olive oil.

Steam spinach until lightly wilted and squeeze out liquid until well drained. Mix ricotta, parmesan, parsley, garden capers, and optional anchovy paste. Add salt and pepper to taste.

Divide spinach cheese mixture among tomatoes and bake until hot (5-10 minutes). Serve warm.

CORRECTION — In the June 26th issue, the recipe for Chow Chow submitted by Pat Elligson, Millers, Md., did not list the ingredient vinegar—a very necessary part for making Chow Chow. Pat regrets this mistake. Here it the complete recipe, which dates back to the 1930s. If you had cut out the old copy, make sure you replace it with the correct copy.

Chow Chow

¼ peck green tomatoes
¼ peck string beans
3 cups shelled limas
3 cups corn
5 green peppers
1 quart onions
1 large head cauliflower
3 cups cider vinegar
2 cups sugar
½ cup salt
2 tablespoons celery seed
2 tablespoons mustard seed
½ pound ground mustard
1 tablespoon tumeric powder

Cut string beans in pieces; break cauliflower into flowerets, add lima beans and corn, and cook about 25 minutes. Chop onion, peppers, and tomatoes.

Heat the vinegar until hot. Add sugar, salt, and spices, which have been mixed together.

Drain the water from the cooked vegetables and add to the hot vinegar. Add the chopped vegetable and cook about 25 minutes, stirring very often. Pour into sterilized jars and seal in boiling water bath.

You could begin with a Close Up experience in Washington D.C. where you will take a close look at the government and have the opportunity to talk to policymakers, current or retired diplomats, government representatives, and get a personal appointment with your own congressman or senator.

The Close Up program began in the 1970s by Stephen A. Janger with the original purpose of getting teenagers more interested in government and to make them realize voting is a citizenship duty.

In more recent years, Close Up expanded to include a Travel Learn series for life-long education.

Experiences are available all over the world, however, local programs include "Washington D.C. and the World," which takes a look at the complex web of alliances, trade, and diplomacy which links the United States with more than 100 nations.

Other programs include "Washington, D.C." where government is brought to life with face-to-face meetings with Washington insiders; and "Washington D.C. and Williamsburg, Va."

Another Close Up program allows you to act as an intern in your congressional office. This weeklong Washington experience provides those over 60 with the opportunity to gain a practical understanding of how public policy affects their lives and how the efforts of individuals can affect government.

Congressional interns participate in briefings, seminars and study visits.

All Close Up program are totally bipartisan and welcome opinions from either side.

To learn more about any Close Up vacations, contact the Close Up Foundation at 44 Canal Center Plaza, Alexandria, Va., 22314-1592 or call 1-800-363-4762. You can also E-mail at lifelong@closeup.org or check out the website at Closeup.org.

All speakers for Close Up are volunteers and are open for questions or debate.

Attend Exciting Kid's Day

BRICKERVILLE (Lancaster Co.) — Kids are known for getting their hands dirty so why shouldn't they get them dirty in the garden?

Esbenshade's Garden Center in Lititz (3 miles East of Brickerville on Route #322) has long been known for their professional support to aid every gardener from novice to expert. Now they are offering a chance for youngsters to learn a little about hands-on gardening.

Esbenshade's is hosting an afternoon of entertainment and education for children ages 5-10 on Tuesday, July 13, beginning at 1 p.m. at their Brickerville location. The event is free and no registration is required.

Jack Hubley from "Call of the Outdoors," a WGAL television program, will be featured at the afternoon's presentations. The July 13 event also includes John Kaskouski, the "Moth Man" and reptile expert, Bill Styer, or Beastmaster Bill, as he is commonly known. Many, will be bringing "The Reptile Experience."

His interest with reptiles began as a child when he visited a museum and encountered boa constrictors. After that Bill began collecting and array of lizards and toads. Today his menagerie includes a number of turtles, lizards, alligators plus over 40 snakes.

Bill has been sharing his knowledge and love for scaly creatures for almost 10 years. During his performance each species is detailed as the animals are highlighted. Most who encounter his pets (including the adults) admit to finding reptiles not as scary as they seemed before attending the show.

"The entire staff at Esbenshade's is very sensitive to children," explains Wilbur Siegrist, retail general manager. "We will provide for them to get up to their elbows in potting soil, meet Jack Hubley as he tells them about 'backyard beasts.' Jack's presentation will be very popular with children 5-10 years old!"

Siegrist explains it is important that children learn about what is going on in the gardening world. "This free event is a great place to start young children understanding what gardening is all about. Our staff members will offer tips that children can understand to grow a good, healthy plant."

During the event, each child will receive a Rudbeckia 'Goldsturm' (Black Eyed Susan), the 1999 perennial plant of the year, to take home and transplant in their own flower bed.

"Gardening can be a valuable learning tool if the child is left the responsibility to care for the plants. If you can teach a child something important like this at a young age, it can stay with him for the rest of his life," Siegrist explains.

There is no limit to the number of participants at the event and parents (as well as grandparents) are welcome to bring children at anytime during the afternoon.

What makes fireworks so colorful?
They're all gas!
Let's start from the ground up Fireworks come in different shells that are packed in layers. (The shape of shell and how it's packed controls the firework's design.)
All fireworks that shoot into the air have what's called a propellant Think of a propellant as a kind of fuel. A fuse goes into the fuel and sets it on fire, a lot like how you might see people light dynamite on television. The burning fuel produces a lot of gas quickly. The gas propels the firework into the air
Once the firework is in the sky, another fuse — called a time-delay fuse — sets the second layer of the shell on fire. Inside this second layer are precise mixtures of chemicals. The hot fire (more than 3,270 degrees Fahrenheit) causes the chemicals to react together and gain more energy. The chemicals get rid of this extra energy by giving off light as they burn
The actual color of the gassy flame depends on what ingredients are packed in the shell If there's an element called barium, the gas streaming out from the firework will be green. Strontium compounds look red as a gas, copper compounds look blue, sodium looks yellowish, and magnesium or aluminum look white And the hotter the fire, the longer the chemicals will stay as a gas to show off their pretty colors

It seems that everything has its good and its bad side. Last night, while cutting alfalfa, our son saw a deer at the edge of the field. As we seldom see deer, they are worthy of a few minutes time to admire their beauty. But, when they eat corn or get into the garden, that is a different story.

When our cherry trees give us a good crop we are pleased. However, in order to have some to pick, we had to cover them with a big net. It was a job to lift the net over the sweet, yellow cherry tree in order to keep the birds from eating them. The jars on the canning shelf do look very nice and were worth the effort. Now I'm freezing sour cherries.

We've finally had some rain so I can stop watering my flowers. This year I have started a new bed of iris and one of dwarf dahlias. The third bed, on the hillside behind our house, contains a variety of day lillies that are blooming now.

Our youngest daughter is moving to Indiana from Texas. She will work for the same company but in a different line of work. She was manager of Folgers coffee plant where all of their coffee is decaffeinated. It was a demanding job, but her new one will be even more demanding. Her children are prepared to find new friends, a new school and a church.

On top of this move, another daughter is thinking of selling her very nice house in order to be in another school district. At one time I do not believe that parents were as keenly interested in their children's education. If you got through public school, they were satisfied. Now many parents plan for college as soon as the child is born.

Becky Kilgore Crowned York Dairy Princess

JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

BAIR (York Co.) — Rebecca "Becky" Kilgore will be able to tell her children someday that she was a turn-of-the-century princess.

The 16-year-old dairy woman was crowned York County's 1999-2000 Dairy Princess as the highlight of the annual pageant, hosted June 26 at the 4-H Center. Serving with Becky on the Princess' court and promotion team will be first and second alternates Michelle Walker and Holly Rankin.

Becky is the daughter of Doug and Pam Kilgore, McCall's Ferry Road, Airville, and a senior at Red Lion Area High School. She is a longtime 4-H member and cattle exhibitor, and owns nine of her own cattle in the family's 50-head milking string and replacement heifer herd.

Though having spent most of the prior week on a school trip to New England, Becky, with her family's help, had created a farm scene with fence and scenic background as a setting for her skit presentation of an original song. Her rendition of the original "King of the Pasture" came complete with black and white cow costume and taped musical accompaniment.

For her speech, Becky spoke about the many changes seen by the dairy industry in the past 100 years, from modernized production methods to new, varied dairy products being marketed in innovative retail methods.

When quizzed by emcee Dale Goodling on a "fishbowl" question about how being a dairy princess might benefit her personally, Becky replied that she would enjoy meeting new people, improve her public speaking skills, and get to work with the candid responses of children.

All candidates were quizzed on a question relating to how they would respond to an animal activist they might encounter at a fair, criticizing the exhibiting of cattle. Becky's approach in answering such an accusation would be to try to patiently explain to the critic how cows are cared for and how the care given to them relates to the cow's well-being.

First alternate Michelle Walker is the daughter of Leroy and Brenda Walker, Thomasville. She is a 16-year-old junior at York Vocational-Technical School and a veteran 4-H member and exhibitor of her own four animals. Michelle works with milking and calf chores on the family's 104-head dairy operation.

Decorating the stage with a variety of farm and cow-related props, Michelle entertained the audience with an original upbeat song and dance performance set to a current country-music background. When a brief, minor problem cropped up with her taped music, she grinned and quipped, burst from the audience as the names were read at Monday evening's competition held in Harrisburg. Selected to represent the Capitol Region at state competition to be held at Penn State in July are the following 4-H'ers:

• Tanisha Seibert, Lebanon County, modeled a satin and chiffon gown. Tanisha's 11 years in 4-H sewing enabled her to stitch a gown of chiffon and satin featuring a short train and hand-beaded and hand-appliques that she dyed to match the deep wine-colored gown. Tanisha completed her first year of college, majoring in fashion design.

• Matthew Reichard, Franklin County, spread a Western Aura over the occasion when he walked across the stage wearing a long black duster coat he made. The coat has snap closures down the front, the back has a mantle cover opening topped off with snaps. He added a horse print western-lined vest, black jeans, and a button front band collar shirt.

• Anna Light, Lebanon County, brought the Civil War Era to memory. Anna reproduced a "Gone With the Wind" original dress, shown in the Los Angeles County Museum of Art. The sheer cotton closely matches the silk of the original dress. To reproduce the neckline ruffle, she made 21 circles slashed along the radius, sewed together to form a chain that was hand pleated to the neckline then finished with 19 yards of insertion lace and green ribbon The nine gore skirt is more than 14 yards in circumference.

• Megan Bishop, Adams County, made a gown that she will wear to perform in Civil War reenactments. Megan researched women's clothing from the 19th century to enable her to reproduce undergarments and used period embroidery techniques on her reticule. The dress, fashioned from blue calico, featured full pagoda sleeves and navy trim. Megan spent more than 100 hours in stitching the outfit.

• Patricia Grieggs, Dauphin County, stitched black capri pants with side slits for ease in walking. She paired the cotton and lycra capris with a sweater twin set made from lightweight cotton knit.

• Melanie Snyder, Dauphin County, selected navy blue crepe material to construct a simple, elegant flowing gown. The fully-lined princess seamed gown is sleeveless with an empire waist and trumpet skirt. The neck, waistline, and open back are accented by pearls and a cream-colored bow and flowing streamers.

• Marie Cartwright, Dauphin County, selected black crepe to stitch a prom gown featuring criss cross straps. The close-fitting A-line evening dress with side zipper and princess seams was accessorized with black gloves, a stunning feather boa, and black shoes.

Senior division blue ribbon winners, who are eligible to serve as alternates if the gold ribbon winners are not able to attend state competition include: Kandace Baum, Cumberland; Lindsay Shirt, Lebanon; Sarah Graybill, Lancaster; Cara Hershey, Lancaster, and Holly Hoover, Lancaster.

The 70 finalists competing at the regional level first had to win at their individual county level. Counties competing included Adams, Cumberland, Dauphin, Franklin, Lebanon, York, and Lancaster.

The fashion show followed an afternoon of judging, staging, quizzing and craft workshops.

Senior judges for the event included Janell Berte, Christ Kinney, and Robin Wampler. Junior judges were Judy Bowlby, Mary Ellen Gardner, and Cindy Gross.

Waterloo Boys Proud Of Green Blood

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

KINZERS (Lancaster Co.) — "Once you catch the John Deere fever, your blood turns green. You become a bit crazy, and think other brands don't exist," said Steve Koser in trying to explain why a bunch of guys called the Waterloo Boys meet monthly and hold annual events.

The Southeastern Pennsylvania Club is one of hundreds of similar clubs established throughout the U.S.

"People often ask us why we restore old tractors. I guess that's a question for a psychiatrist to figure out," Koser said with an easy going laugh. Koser said that he and his brothers own six models that range in age from a 1935 to 1957.

"Lots of guys are getting into restoring tractors, but for some reason, it seems that we John Deere guys are the most radical," Koser said.

John Gouge of Chester County agrees. "It's something about that 'put-put' sound or some call it the "pop-pop" sound, which a John Deere is famous for, that really excites us.

"Do you hear it?" he asks while showing off a 1920 Waterloo Boy.

"Technically it's the sound of that separates us from all the rest (antique tractors)," Gouge said.

The 1920 tractor was purchased by the Southeastern Chapter of Waterloo Boys. The rare model was picked up in the state of Montana.

According to Koser, many similar models went to the scrap heap during the W.W.II years to provide for the war effort's need of scrap metal. In fact, member Ray Herr said that he remembers cutting one apart for the war efforts when he was young.

Members enthusiastically describe the 1920 Waterloo as priceless and said that it will never be sold after club members restore it to its original glory.

Members raised the money to buy the rare model by restoring newer antique models, which were then sold through the raffle ticket process.

The club holds monthly meetings on the Rough and Tumble grounds. In addition to the camaraderie of sharing infomally, educational presentations teach restoring and collecting information.

Club members recently pieced together the history of the John Deere Company. According to members, the company started out manufacturing a steel plow that turned over the Mississippi river bottom soil, an unheard of feat prior to 1837. When other companies first invented tractors to make farming easier, John Deere rejected the idea of becoming involved in the tractor business.

In those early years, the company did not foresee that tractors would become essential to farming. From their perspective, tractors were big, heavy, clumsy things that broke down a lot. Whereas the horse had been around for a long time and was very dependable, Koser said of the research he had done on the subject.

But in 1917, Henry Ford changed things.

"I hate to give credit to the Ford Company," Koser said. "But when Ford developed the Fordsom tractor, Deere knew it needed to do something fast."

It was too late to come up with a new invention. At that time, Waterloo Tractor Company had developed what was considered the most reliable tractor at that time, but the company was struggling financially.

"Deere gave them an offer they couldn't refuse," Koser reported, "And in 1918 the Waterloo Company was purchased by Deere."

Waterloo tractors were known for simplicity of design and for its two cylinder engines as compared to four cylinders used by other tractor companies.

"The two-cylinder has a distinct sound that still makes green-blooded guys go crazy," Koser said. "It's that sound that makes us fall in love with antique tractors."

The simple design had less moving parts and enabled gears and transmission to be mechanically repaired quickly unlike other brands that had to have casing removed to be repaired.

"Although it had only two cylinders the way it was designed resulted in tremendous lugging power," Koser said.

John Deere patterned its tractors after the Waterloo and later manufactured the famous Model D, Model A and B.

Club members share restoration and preservations know-how for the tractors, and also occasional competitions doing actual plowing.

Many of the antique tractors serve a dual purpose. In addition to collector values and the pleasure owners get out of restoring them, the tractors are still used for farming.

Koser said, "There has been phenomental change in this generation. I think the fast pace makes us want to revert to things from an earlier era that we understand and enjoy. As the world gets faster and faster and pressure increases, we all like an opportunity to slip away from it all. For us (members) it is sounds like antique tractors that help us relax."

A day for others to join them in experiencing the comforting sounds and sights of the past is planned. Waterloo Days will be held at the Rough and Tumble Agriculture Museum on July 24. The family affair will feature exhibits of more than 100 antique tractors brought to the grounds by collectors from many states. Tractor games, a parade, a kiddie tractor pull, a big boys' pull, and a flea market are some of the other activities.

Admission is $3 for adults, and children under 12 are free.

Rough and Tumble Agriculture Museum preserves and restores all brands of tractors and equipment. Many other events held on the grounds feature other makes of tractors, but Waterloo Boy Club members are already preparing for the year 2000, when the Thresherman's Reunion to be held Aug. 16-19, will feature John Deere tractors.

For more information on the club or its events, call Koser at (717) 354-6896.

"We're just a bunch of guys who like old tractors," is the way these fellows describe themselves. From left, Ray Herr, Steve Koser, and John Gouge show off the 1920 Waterloo Boy the local club purchased recently. This and numerous other models will be on display during the annual Waterloo Days to be held at Rough and Tumble, Kinzers, on July 24.

You ask You answer

This column is for readers who have questions but don't know who to ask for answers.

"You Ask—You Answer" is for non-cooking questions. When a reader sends in a question, it will be printed in the paper. Readers who know the answer are asked to respond by mailing the answer, which will then be printed in the paper.

Questions and Answers to this column should be addressed to You Ask—You Answer, Lancaster Farming, P.O. Box 609, Ephrata, PA 17522. Attention: Lou Ann Good.

Do not send a self-addressed, stamped envelope for a reply. If we receive the answer, we will publish it as soon as possible. Please include your phone number because we sometimes need to contact the person to clarify details. We will not publish your phone number unless you request it.

When quizzed if farmers should promote their own dairy products, Michelle's answer was an adamant "Yes!" She added that producers can help with their own public-image and promotion by participating in farm tours to help inform the public about dairy production and producing milk so that it tastes good. Michelle dedicated her speech on cows to a former favorite cow and best friend, "Buffy."

In response to the animal-activist question, Michelle responded that she had actually been approached during the state Farm Show on the issue of clipping cows during cold weather. Her answer to the questioner was to relate how people get haircuts year round, and to further elaborate on how and why certain fitting procedures are followed.

Alternate Holly Rankin, 16, is the daughter of Jon and Sharon Rankin, Bellevue Road, Red Lion. She is a Red Lion Area High School junior, active in FFA and vo-ag, member of the state Ayrshire Bowl Quiz Team, and employed by the Heindel dairy farm.

To the audience's amusement, Holly opened her skit, dressed as a cow, grazing across the stage on her hands and knees. She was accompanied by an appropriate munching sound of a cow contentedly chomping on grass. Holly then proceeded to explain how she took the grass and turned into nature's most nearly perfect food, utilizing four different stomachs in the process.

Holly's speech related how the use of artificial insemination has changed the dairy industry, making dairy farms safer because of the absence of unpredictable bulls, and offering producers a better range of genetics to improve herds. When quizzed on why she entered the princess pageant, Holly related how much she enjoys her involvement in the dairy industry, her wish to help educate the general public about that industry, and the added opportunity to get to know and work with the other members of the promotion team.

In response to the question on animal-activists at cattle shows, Holly suggested that if they had the opportunity to work with an animal in such a setting, perhaps they would be more understanding.

April Daugherty and Janet Yohe were named the Dairy Maids. Both have served previously with the county's milk promotion team.

April is the daughter of Philip and Terry Daugherty, York, a 15-year-old sophomore at New Freedom Christian School. She is a member of the 4-H Beef Club and helps to care for the family's 32 milking cows. Her promotional poster presentation depicted milk as a boxer, knocking out the competitor, iced tea.

Janet Yohe, the daughter of Jerry and Kathy Yohe, is 15 and a junior at Spring Grove Area High School. She helps with milking chores at Stump Acres dairy operation, where her father is a partner. Janet's poster presentation, "Milk It For All It's Worth," related all the products of milk and their numerous health benefits.

Dairy Miss representatives for the upcoming promotional year are Jelee Anstine, Amy Baumgardner, and Amanda Hoover.

Jelee Anstine, 7, is the daughter of Lynn and Charles Anstine, York. The Hayshire Elementary third-grader presented an original poem about milk.

Amy Baumgardner, 8, is the daughter of Lori and Dan Baumgardner, Dillsburg. Her poem about "Bonehead" detailed the exploits of a stubborn cow.

Returning Dairy Miss Amanda Hoover, is the 11-year-old daughter of Rose and Paul Hoover, East Prospect. In her brief speech, she reminded her listeners that "Dairy Day Everyday."

Amber Thoman, a returning Little Miss, also presented a poem about dairying. Five-year-old Amber is the daughter of Gail and Gary Thoman, Dallastown, and will begin kindergarten this fall.

Both outgoing princess Jessica Pomraning, and alternate Heather Crowl thanked the committee, their families, and the dairy farmers for their support.

Jessica called the past 12 months "one of the best, but toughest, years of my life." She reminded the trio of candidates that the promotion experience would be a worthwhile part of their life and that "It's the early bird that gets the worm, but the second mouse is the one that gets the cheese."

Judges for the dairy princess contest were Christine Marsteller, a York County farm wife who is a diabetes spokeswoman and activist as the 1999 Mrs. Pennsylvania World, 1996-97 county dairy princess Tanya Thoman, an EMT volunteer and emergency service employee of the Harrisburg Hospital, and area agriculture feeds consultant Gordon Penington.

Dairy Princess Becky Kilgore and the dairy promotion team are available for appearances at county and area agriculture and communities and may be contacted through program coordinator Gail Thoman, call (717) 428-1832, or booking chairman Terry Daugherty, phone (717) 843-6195.

Lori Connelly and court are eager to promote the dairy industry in Centre County.

Centre County Selects Dairy Promoters

PLEASANT GAP (Centre Co.) — On June 5, three contestants vied for the 1999 Centre County Dairy Princess title. Lori Connelly of Pennsylvania Furnace, was crowned as the 1999 Centre County Dairy Princess. Connelly resides on Fairbrook Farms with her parents Ronald and Denise Connelly. Lori recently graduated from State College Area High School and is enrolled in Penn State University majoring in animal sciences. Her activities in school included The Dance Marathon for Cerebral Palsy, High Academic Honor Roll, and she is a Power of PAWS award recipient.

In addition to her activities in school, she has served in numerous offices of the Mt. Nittany 4-H Dairy Club, The Centre Hall 4-H Ag Club, president of the Pennsylvania Junior Holstein Executive Committee, Centre Co./PA Dairy Quiz Bowl, and has shown Holstien dairy cattle for nine years. She also served as a Pennsylvania representative for the National 4-H Dairy Leadership Conference in Madison, Wisconsin. Lori enjoys showing dairy cattle and market swine and spending time with friends and family.

In Connelly's acceptance speech, she stated, "I am honored to represent such a strong group of industry leaders in Centre County. I will do my best to represent you, the dairy farmers well throughout my reign."

The pageant, led by Master of Ceremonies John Ishler was held at the Logan Grange Hall in Pleasant Gap. The panel of judges for the evening including Cheryl Glick of Mifflin County, Charles Schillings of Huntingdon County, and Lisa Shaw of Franklin County, had their work cut out for them as all the contestants gave strong presentations.

Each contestant presented both a 3-5 minute speech and skit for the audience. The judges also held interview sessions prior to the pageant and each contestant was given an impromptu question.

While the judges made their decision, the 1998 Centre Co. Dairy Princess, Billie Jo Bird gave her heartfelt farewell, closing her reign.

As the night came to a close, the judges named Emily Cloninger of Centre Hall, the 1999 First Alternate Princess. Emily is the 17-year-old daughter of Dr. Robert and Ellen Cloninger, also of Centre Hall. She will be a senior this year at Penns Valley Area High School where she is involved in Marching Band, Student Council and managing the track team. She has also been involved in Dairy Quiz Bowl, Centre Hall 4-H Ag Club, Mt. Nittany 4-H Dairy Club, Penns Valley 4-H Beef Club, and Pa. Junior Holstein Executive Committee.

In her spare time she enjoys reading, working with animals and Dairy Bowl. Emily presented a speech entitled, "The Dairy Farmer." Her skit, accompanied by stuffed animals and tea sets was entitled, "Noontime Milk Party."

Helping the princesses to promote this year will be a number of Dairy Maids, Misses and Ambassadors including Amanda Gates, Mandee Bierly, Ashley Bird, Amanda Corl, Rebecca Cloninger, Courtney Klingler, Miranda Ullmer, Naomi Ullmer, Bethany Wasson, Krystal Wasson, and Nicole Wasson.

IS YOUR COMMUNITY PROMOTING HEALTHY CHILD CARE?

Yes, we've all heard the saying, "It takes a village to raise a child," but is it working?

How is your community supporting healthy child care?

Do parents, child care providers, directors, hospitals, health professionals work together to make sure our children are immunized, have health insurance, and are receiving quality care while in the child care setting?

Use the following list developed by the PA Chapter of the American Academy of Pediatrics and see how healthy child care is promoted in your community.

1. Promote safe, healthy, and developmentally appropriate child care environments:

Check that children have safe nurturing, highly interactive settings. Provide families with information about how to find quality child care. Make sure they transport children to and from care safely.

2. Increase immunization rates and preventative services for children in child care settings:

Check children's health records regularly to be sure that each child is up-to-date with recommended immunizations and routine screening. Send children back to their health providers to receive needed vaccines and health services if they are due. Make full immunization a condition of attending child care.

3. Help families access key public and private health and social service programs:

Be sure every child has a source of health insurance. Check eligibility for the Special Supplemental Nutrition Program for Women, Infants and Children (WIC), Supplemental Security Income (SSI) and other programs. Advise families to use these programs to get what their children need. Refer those without full coverage to public health insurance programs. Encourage parents to ask their employers to cover children with preventive and illness health benefits.

4. Promote access to comprehensive health care:

Encourage parents to get preventive health services for their children at their usual source of health care, but make sure kids get screened somehow. Child care providers cannot educate children with undetected and untreated conditions that result in serious illness and injury. If necessary, arrange for health, dental, lead poisoning, and other recommended screening tests where you can get them in the community and forward the results to the child's usual source of health care.

5. Conduct health and safety education for children, families and child care providers:

Share with staff and families information about preventing infection, preventing injuries, and promoting the health and children and adults who care for them. Urge everyone to practice healthy behaviors such as handwashing, tooth brushing, preparing for emergencies, using seat restraints in a car, and wearing a helmet when riding a pedal cycle.

6. Improve nutrition in child care:

Involve nutrition experts in checking and advising child care programs about how to include the developmental, cultural, and health needs of children in planning for meals and snacks in child care.

7. Provide training and consultation for child care providers in social and emotional health:

Arrange for routine involvement of mental health professionals who can train and advise child care staff on how to identify and care for the children who may be neglected, abused, exposed to violent environments, or who are experiencing behavior problems.

Cruise For Calcium Tour

The Milk Mustache Mobile rolls along on its nationwide 100-City Cruise for Calcium tour, to educate Americans about the importance of calcium-rich milk and how easy it is to meet the daily need for this vital nutrient by drinking at least three 8-ounces glasses of milk.

Rolling Into Town

The Milk Mustache Mobile 100-City Cruise for Calcium is canvassing the country to educate Americans about the importance of calcium-rich milk and how easy it is to meet the daily need for this vital nutrient by drinking at least three 8-ounce glasses of milk.

As part of the tour, the Milk Mustache Mobile's photo booth is traveling in search of the next milk mustache star to appear in a national got milk?® ad in "People" magazine. New this year, ads will also be featured in "Teen People" and People En Español."

Drink It On

Just like John Elway, LeAnn Rimes, Spike Lee, and other popular milk mustache celebrities, American of all ages attending a Milk Mustache Mobile event will have the opportunity to drink on the secret milk mustache recipe and unveil their most creative milk mustache.

A Winning Combination

Judges from the Milk Mustache campaign's advertising agency in New York City will select one winning milk mustache photo from each city who will be featured on the national milk Web site, www.whymilk.com.

At the conclusion of the Cruise for Calcium Tour, one national winner will be chosen from all local winners to appear in a milk ad in a future issue of "People" magazine.

What's Happening At Lancaster Extension

Elizabeth Smith

Summer Intern

Elizabeth At Bat

Being the Lancaster 4-H Summer Assistant is like being a member of a baseball team. The extension agents are the coaches of the team and the summer assistants are the players. If Lancaster did have a team it would be called the "Fighting 4-Her's." We would have four coaches: Katina Showman, Lori Little, Chet Hughes, and Nancy Wiker. They would be in charge of coming up with the game plans and supervising the execution of the strategies. No team is complete without players and here, in Lancaster County, we have the pick of the league! Our players are special because they can handle any position on the field and are always ready to take on new challenges. The starting line up consists of Suzanne Bishard, Paula Marshal, Derek Stoner, and of course me! So far this season we have a perfect record and we aim to remain on top for the rest of the summer.

When you're a member of the Fighting 4-Her's it means that any of the coaches can use you to help with their events. This is exactly what happened last week, when coach Wiker decided to call me in to help with the Lancaster County 4-H Fashion Revue. The theme for Fashion Revue this year, was, Fashion Magic! It became my responsibility to create the program for the day and also to come up with decorations for the fashion show later in the evening.

The first project I tackled was creating the program for the day. Since the theme was Fashion Magic, I decided to use the classic image of top hat and magic wand for the cover. The only problem was finding that image; where do you find a picture of a top hat and wand? After about two days of unsuccessful searching I was finally saved when one of the secretaries heard about my plight and told me that she had that exact image on her computer! After much profuse thanking, I obtained the image and had the program completed by the end of the day.

Next on the agenda was obtaining stage decorations. I figured this part should be a lot easier. Boy, was I wrong! I came up with the wonderful idea to use stars to decorate the curtain of the stage, this would go right along with the magic theme and stars would be easy to find. As it turned out stars were even harder to find than a top hat and wand! So there I was, two days before the show with an empty stage and no stars.

It was at this point that I decided that I was not going to let this beat me, after all I'm Elizabeth Smith, self-trained face painter and professional bathroom cleaner! I wasn't going to let a little setback hold me down. If I could not find the stars I was just going to have to make them. No matter that we needed 50 stars and I had no idea how to make them, I was determined to succeed! There was only one way to do this however, get help!

After much begging and pleading, I convinced my fellow teammate Suzanne to help me trace and cut out 50 stars. We used gold and silver metallic poster board and three different star patterns that I created.

After four hours of work and sore hands we finally completed the task, so I thought. In the excitement of making the stars I forgot all about the fact that after they were made they had to be hung on the curtain. No problem! After some more begging, on my part and the use of a ladder, Suzanne and I pinned all of the stars to the curtain the morning of the Fashion Revue. The evening was a complete success and everyone had a wonderful time, stars and all.

Let's see as I look over the season schedule I see that our next big event is 4-H camp. Why do I get the funny feeling that once again I'm going to be acquiring skills that I never knew I had before. This week I found out I'm pretty good at interior design, okay so all I did was make stars, but interior designer just sounded better. Oh well, I guess I'd better go, I hear one of my coaches calling. I must be up at bat again!

Tiffany Rockwell Shows Somerset Champ Lamb

GAY BROWNLEE
Somerset Co. Correspondent

MEYERSDALE (Somerset Co.) — Tiffany Rockwell showed the overall champion at the Somerset County PROspective Market Lamb SHOw, held at the Somerset County Fairgrounds.

From Fairchance, Fayette County, the 18-year-old's Hamp-Suffolk cross weighed 103 pounds.

Reserve champion honors went to David Neagley, 13, Elizabethville, Dauphin County, who also showed a Hamp-Suffolk cross.

The youth is secretary of the Upper Dauphin Livestock Club.

The Somerset County champions were Deidra Smith from Glencoe, the county exhibitor champion, and Molly Enos from Somerset, the county exhibitor reserve champion.

Mark King, Rockwood, had the home grown champion and Korey Harbaugh Listie had the home grown reserve champion.

The divisions included lightweight, medium weight, and heavy weight. Each division had three classes to be judged by Chad Stine, Wooster, Ohio.

He was en route to fulfill his role at the event when Stine was held up in traffic because of a problem concerning an electric utility. At that point he didn't realize the PRO-SHO was having a power outage and officials were hoping it would be restored before the judge arrived.

Meanwhile, those experiencing the widespread outage on a stormless day were wondering what caused the glitch. Reportedly, a train derailed in the area. The inconvenience lasted about one and a quarter hours.

Prior to the show itself, instructional events were held with Gene Sweigard, Halifax, Dauphin County; Matt Sellers, Thomasville, York County and Heidi Svonavec, Rockwood, Somerset County.

The exhibitors received nice awards. The overall champion and reserve, had a director's chair decorated with the show's name and year on a teal green canvas, to take home with them.

These were sponsored by G & G Club Lambs and Luce & Svonavec, Auctioneers.

Division winners received blankets. Placings and participants received rosettes. County winners received buckles, mugs, halters with leads, feeders and nylon halters.

Feeders, buckets, shampoo, halters, and sprayers went to showmanship winners.

Northeast Stone Fruit Sponsors Want Answers To Living With Pits

ROCHESTER, N.Y. – Stone fruit growers are forming an organization Erma Bombeck might want to join. The Northeast Stone Fruit Sponsors (NESFS) was formed at the New York State Horticultural Society's annual meeting in January to provide information to Northeast fruit growers so they can profitably grow and market stone fruit.

"NESFS invites growers of all tender fruits, including sweet cherries, tart cherries, peaches, prunes, plums, and apricots to join," said Jim Bittner, a founding member whose family grows apples and stone fruit on a 500-acre fruit farm in Appleton, N.Y.

The new organization is regional in nature and will accommodate growers from all over the northeastern United States. One of the objectives is to build diversity back into the tree fruit industry.

Production figures from the New York Agricultural Statics Service, for example, show a decline in the production of stone fruits in new York that is echoed in other Northeastern states. In 1920, 2,142 million pounds of apples were produced in new York, 99 million pounds of peaches and 70,000 tons of pears. In 1990, apple production had dropped by a factor of two to 990 million pounds, but peach production had dropped by a factor of six to 14 million pounds, and pear production had dropped by a factor of four to 14,600 tons.

The decline is just as dramatic for cherries. In 1950, there were 4,600 tons of sweet cherries produced, and only 1.000 tons in 1990. Tart cherry production in 1950 was 52.2 million pounds, and only 16.5 million pounds in 1990.

Farm families once shipped peaches, plums, pears and cherries for fresh markets from Boston to New York, Philadelphia, Cleveland, and all points between. Closer to home, many towns had their own canning companies that process not-so-perfect fruit from area growers into juice, jams, pie fillings, and jellies.

Bittner knows the benefits of diversification. "Because of the damage incurred to trees and fruit by the Labor Day storm, this was a really tough year for New York apple growers," he said. "Our farm would be in a lot rougher shape if we didn't have the stone fruits." About half of the acreage on Bittner's farm is dedicated to tart and sweet cherry and peach production for both the fresh and processing markets. The other half is for apples.

In addition to building diversity, members of NESFS from New York and neighboring states intend to advocate stronger research efforts with their land grant university and the USDA.

"Universities respond a lot better to commodity organizations than they do to individual growers," said Bittner. " We need research on new varieties and rootstocks, research on breeding new varieties suited to New York, research on planting and training systems, research on insect and disease management, and marketing help."

The NESFS will provide seed money to fund research projects, set up cooperative university/industry test plots, and schedule tours and meetings to share information among producers. Activities for 1999 include cataloging stone fruit test plots located in the Northeast, organizing a stone fruit school in November, and arranging summer tours to see a stone fruit harvest.

IPM Traps Reduce Sprays In Sweet Corn

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Each year, Pennsylvania vegetable growers plant more than 20,000 acres of sweet corn, ranking the state among the top 10 nationally in sweet corn production. But this $25 million crop is annually at risk to such devastating pests as the corn earworm, fall army worm, and European corn borer.

Because of growing concern over pesticide use on the produce we eat, researchers and extension specialists in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences are testing new ways of monitoring and controlling these pests on farms across the state.

Steve Bogash, Penn State Cooperative extension agent in Blair County, is helping farms in Bedford and Blair counties to adopt Integrated Pest Management (IPM), an approach to managing pests that integrates appropriate physical, biological and chemical tactics that are safe, profitable and environmentally compatible.

To monitor pest infestations, Bogash works with farmers to place traps in sweet corn fields. The traps, which are baited with pheromones to attract male insects, are checked daily.

A large number of males in the traps indicates that females are in the field laying eggs. If trap counts suggest that pesticide spraying is needed, growers have five to seven days to spray before the eggs hatch. Low trap counts mean insecticide spraying might not be needed.

As a result of this program, participating growers in 1998 reduced the average number of pesticide sprays by about three while still producing high-quality corn with strong market demand.

"It was essential that no insects be found in the corn, since all of it was going directly to the fresh market," said Bogash. "At auction, growers were able to obtain premium prices and achieved a reputation for having very high quality corn."

Based on these results, Bogash plans to expand the program during the 1999 growing season. To reach the broadest audience, this year's trap counts also will be posted at the Morrison's Cove Produce Auction in Butler County.

For more information on the IPM pheromone trap program, contact Bogash at (814) 693-3265.

Treated Lumber Useful For Many Building Projects

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Lumber treated with preservatives and pesticides has allowed the human race to build projects ranging from backyard decks to Grecian temples, yet many modern homeowners don't know how to use treated wood, said a wood products expert in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences.

"Wood is treated to protect it from decay by fungi and attack by insects," said Roy Adams, associate professor of wood products. "Without being treated, exposed wood products wouldn't last long before decaying."

Adams said the practice of treating lumber with preservatives goes back centuries. One of the first methods used was carbonization, or charring. The Temple of Diana in ancient Greece was constructed on charred wooden pilings. The ancient Greeks, Egyptians, and Chinese poured oils into holes drilled in wood to preserve it.

Adams said three primary preservatives, all of which are toxic, are used today.

- Chromated copper arsenate (CCA) is used to preserve building lumber.
- Creosote is used mainly to preserve railroad ties and pilings.
- Pentochlorophenol is used to preserve utility poles.

Building lumber is treated with CCA using a process of pressure treatment patented in 1838. Adams explained that when lumber is freshly cut from trees, the wood is laden with moisture. To treat the wood, the lumber is first dried and then chemicals are pumped into the wood under pressure.

"The chemicals bond with the wood cells, replacing the water," Adams said. "When a vacuum is applied to remove excess chemicals, most of the preservatives remain in the wood."

Adams said consumers can recognize CCA-treated lumber by its greenish tinge and often heavier weight than untreated lumber. "Most of the treated lumber in the Northeast is Southern yellow pine," Adams said.

He also pointed out that several wood species have naturally durable wood, including redwood, cedar, and black cherry. "These species have natural preservatives in the heartwood, which is the wood from the center of a tree," Adams said.

All treated lumber carries a grade stamp, identifying tree species, mill of origin, the lumber grade, what chemicals have been used, and how much preservative has been retained in the wood.

One of the most important elements of the stamp is whether the lumber is rated for "ground contact," Adams said. If it is, then homeowners or contractors can use the lumber in applications where soil comes in contact with the wood. "For example if you're building a deck, you would use 'ground contact' treated lumber to sink into the ground to support the deck," he said. "You can use a lesser rating on railings and other parts of the deck."

For decay to occur, there must be adequate supplies of moisture and oxygen as well as favorable temperatures, Adams said These elements are most likely to come together where wood emerges from soil

Although the chemicals used to treat lumber are toxic, treated lumber is not hazardous if you take some simple precautions

- Wear gloves, goggles, and dust mask when sawing. Homeowners should not inhale sawdust from treated wood, and eyes should be protected from particles.
- Wash hands and clothes. Wash your hands after handling treated lumber before eating, drinking, or smoking. If preservatives or sawdust accumulates on clothes, wash them before wearing them again. Adams said. "Wash them separately from other clothing," he noted.
- Do not burn. Chemicals locked into the wood by the treatment process will be released by burning, Adams explained. "Dispose of treated wood by trash collection," he suggested. "If treated wood is burned in open fires, fireplaces, stoves or boilers, toxic chemicals can be produced in the smoke and ashes"
- Purchase clean materials The wood should be clean and free of any residues. Excess preservatives will resemble salt or mineral crystals.

Standard MF 4200 Series models from 65-99 hp provide great all-round visibility, a wide choice of features and options, plus outstanding comfort, performance, and value for all jobs*

Low-profile 85 hp MF 4225 model combines the exceptional forward view of the high-visibility models with a lower cab (96-in. cab clearance on 16 9-30 tires).*

Ohio's Animal Confinement Policy Compares Well To Other States

COLUMBUS, Ohio – Results of a national animal confinement policy survey show Ohio is proactive in developing a process to help livestock producers to be good environmental stewards, said Steve Baertsche, assistant director of Ohio State University Extension agriculture and natural resources.

"I think that's why there have been so few adverse environmental incidents in Ohio, such as manure spills, when compared to some other states," Baertsche said. "We want to help Ohio's livestock industry remain competitive and to protect Ohio's natural resources at the same time. I think everyone is on the same page with that."

The national animal confinement policy survey is a work in progress containing results from 35 states as of Feb. 2.

"The database of information created by this study will be very useful to agencies such as the Ohio Livestock Coalition, the Ohio Environmental Protection Agency, the Ohio Department of Natural Resources/Soil and Water Conservation, and the Natural Resources Conservation Service, because it will help them make objective comparisons to other states' implementation and regulation strategies," Baertsche said.

Preliminary results show confined animal feeding operations (CAFOs) are controversial in 31 of the 35 states, including Ohio. Nationally, swine, dairy cattle and poultry ranked first, second and third in level of controversy by respondents. However, in Ohio, the three listed as most controversial were poultry, swine and beef cattle.

Results also show a diversity among states in their methods of regulating CAFOs.

State agencies are involved in CAFO policy administration and enforcement in 33 states, county governments are involved in 16 states, town or township governments participate in seven states, federal agencies are involved in five states, and sub-state regional agencies are involved in four. Ohio has state, sub-state regional and county involvement.

When asked whether livestock facility location or site selection requires an approval or permit from any government entity, the responses indicated that 27 of 35 states have state agency approval, 18 have local agency approval, four have no government approval of sites, and one has federal approval of CAFO sites. Ohio requires state agency approval of sites.

CAFO separation or set-back requirements, such as required distances between manure lagoons and wells or ponds, are imposed by state government in 23 of 35 states. Physical or geological tests are required by state government for site approval in 22 states. Public notices or hearings are required by state government for the approval in 20 states. And, state agency site visits are required before site approval by state government in 17 states. Separation or set-backs, physical or geological tests, public notices or hearings, ad site visits are all required in Ohio.

Responses indicate that manure management plans are required in 26 of 35 states. Nutrient standards or other limits that restrict manure application are imposed in at least 24 states. Eleven responding states require state approval of facility design plans or other criteria for manure management structures. Sixteen states require ground-water monitoring of wells under some circumstances, and 10 have specific requirements for controlling flies or insects. Eight states impose odor standards such as the number of objectionable days per year.

Manure management plans, nutrient standards and other limits restricting manure disposal, state approval of facility design plans, and fly and beetle management plans are all required in Ohio. Odor standards do not exist in the state.

"I believe the study will continue to document the way Ohio State University Extension and the Ohio Agriculture Research and Development Center have tried to be leaders in the country at implementing environmentally benign practices such as livestock and poultry mortality composting and the voluntary Livestock Environmental Assurance Program or LEAP," Baertsche said. "The more proactive program we can implement with the Ohio Livestock Coalition and other environmental agency partners, the fewer new environmental regulations will be required. It won't be hard to implement potential new requirements on Ohio's farms if we're already doing many of them."

An extension contact in each state was asked to contact university colleagues and state agency staff with appropriate expertise to respond to the survey. Larry Libby, Ohio State University agricultural economist specializing in rural and urban policy, responded to the survey for Ohio.

The national project is sponsored by the U.S. Department of Agriculture—Cooperative State Research Extension and Education Service (CSREES), Farm Foundation of Chicago and Extension Services in Colorado, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Michigan, Missouri, Nebraska, North Dakota, Ohio, South Carolina, South Dakota and Wisconsin.

The 35 states that have responded so far are Alabama, Alaska, Arizona, Arkansas, Colorado, Connecticut, Delaware, Georgia, Hawaii, Idaho, Illinois, Indi-ana, Iowa, Kansas Kentucky, Maryland, Maine, Michigan, Minnesota, Mississippi, Missouri, Nebraska, New Hampshire, New York, North Carolina, Ohio, Oklahoma, Oregon, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, South Dakota, Tennessee, Vermont, Virginia and Washington.

For more information on the survey, specific questions asked and responses by state can be accessed on the World Wide Web (http://cherokee.agecon.clemson.edu/confine.htm).

Going To Seed Is Good Thing For Plant Propagators

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) – In cartoons, people throw a few seeds down on the ground and, seconds later, a field of flowers appears. In reality, growing plants from seeds is somewhat more complicated, but an expert in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences says that the average gardener can do it successfully.

"No one knows when humans first started propagating plants, but seeds are a great way to do it," said Robert Berghage, assistant professor of horticulture. "Seeds can survive cold, drought, and any generally nasty condition you can think of."

To grow a plant from seed, gardeners need a viable (living) seed and an appropriate environment. Berghage said beyond being "viable," a seed must not be dormant. "Dormancy is caused by physical or chemical barriers to germination," he said.

•Physical barriers. Some plants have hard, waxy seed coats that are nearly waterproof. Berghage recommends cracking the seed coat by lightly scraping the seed with sandpaper.

• Chemical barriers. Some seeds may need a cool, moist period in order to breakdown substances that keep the seed from germinating. "Many gardeners place seeds within a moist paper towel in a plastic bag, which is then stored in the refrigerator," Berghage said.

Berghage points out that the two most important elements in providing an appropriate environment are moisture and temperature.

•Moisture. Seeds will become dormant if they dry out. "Too much water also is very bad for seeds because the water doesn't allow the germinating seed to get oxygen," Berghage said. "A quality potting soil can help in avoiding dryness or over-saturation."

•Temperature. Each seed has an optimum temperature for germination. For many garden annuals a temperature between 70 and 75 degrees Fahrenheit is best. For cool season plants, such as pansies, 62 to 68 degrees F is best.

Once your plants have germinated, always provide them with enough light for good growth," Berghage said.

Berghage said a fungal plant disease called "damping off" can cause problems in the early stages of growth. Chemical fungicides can be used to prevent the disease, but Berghage says the following steps can help avoid damping off: use sterile soil and pots, provide good air movement around the plants and soil, and allow the potting soil to dry between waterings.

Registration Encouraged For Information Agriculture Conference

NORCROSS, Ga. — Individuals who want to harness the power of information management in today's dynamic agriculture will be attending the 1999 Information Agriculture Conference, InfoAg99, August 9-11.

The conference is organized by the Potash & Phosphate Institute (PPI), Potash & Phosphate Institute of Canada (PPIC), Foundation for Agronomic Research (FAR), and Purdue University. InfoAg99 will take place at Stewart Center on the Purdue campus in West Lafayette, Ind.

Participants can choose from several program tracks at the conference, including sessions on data analysis, site-specific management guidelines, communications technology in agriculture, a nutrient management planning workshop, and business aspects of precision agriculture. Presenters at the conference include agribusiness and industry representatives, university specialists, farmers, government agency personnel, and others.

"Adaptation of site-specific crop production technologies and refining information systems related to agriculture are keys to future progress," said Dr. Paul E. Fixen, PPI senior vice president and conference planning coordinator. "Individuals attending this conference will have the opportunity to gain practical and useful insight for adapting to important issues in production agriculture."

Conference participants will hear from speakers in general sessions with a range of perspectives on nutrient management planning, including considerations on use of livestock manure in crop production systems. In smaller workshop sessions, more detailed information will be presented. A case study of an actual crop/livestock farm will be used as a basis for discussion and hands-on computer experience in the nutrient management planning workshop track.

A communications section of the program will feature speakers illustrating how enhanced communications among farmer/dealer/landlord/banker and others can be adapted to better use available resources for more profitable production. A "Cyberfarm community" will demonstrate the potential of information technology.

There will be an exhibit area where companies and organizations can display new products and services in data management, analysis, and communications technology.

Another portion of the InfoAg99 progarm will highlight aspects of building a business around site-specific systems. Commerce experts will discuss service business opportunities for retailers and consultants. The CyberDealership workshop returns with a fresh look at putting the pieces together for a business plan.

On Monday evening, Aug. 9, a Purdue site-specific management showcase will feature updates on several studies and programs from agronomists, agricultural engineers, economists and other specialists at the university. Dr. Chris Johannsen, Agronomy Department, is organizing this portion of the program, with topics ranging from remote sensing to yield monitors to in-field sensors.

The 1999 program is expected to appeal to a cross-section of people in agriculture, including innovative farmers, fertilizer dealers, consultants, Certified Crop Advisers (CCAs), farm managers, government agency personnel (particularly Natural Resources Conservation Service), university researchers, teachers, Extension specialists, and international participants.

"Think of Information Agriculture as a combination of the collection, processing, interpretation, and dissemination of information used in the management of agricultural systems. In the broader sense, it would include the tools and data management necessary for accomplishing these tasks," explained Dr. Harold F. Reetz Jr., PPI midwest director. The concept for the conference grew out of discussions among several farmers, industry representatives, Extension specialists, and others looking for a better understanding of new technology and farm management.

Also participating as sponsors of InfoAg99 are AgriNews Publications, Inc.; Dealer Progress/PrecisionAg Illustrated; Doane Agricultural Services; Farm Chemicals/Ag Consultant; John Deere Precision Farming; United Soybean Board; and VantagePoint Network.

Registration fee to attend the conference is $350 per person for payment received by July 10, and $450 thereafter. More information on registration procedures, exhibitor fees, hotel accommodations, and other details are available. Access current information about the conference at www.ppi-far.org/infoag99, call (605) 692-6280, or fax (605) 697-7149.

We Breed Champions, Too!

Well, we really don't "breed" them, but we feel each mixer that we produce is a champion in every way. We take great care in designing each machine before it is built. We also track each machine after it leaves our facility, making sure it is delivered to you on time, and ready to go to work the minute it is off the truck. We then follow the life of the Mixer, making sure that the customer is happy with the machine, long after the sale. If you want a company that takes as much pride in their product as we know you do in yours, give us a call.

CLAAS Country
Meeting all your harvesting needs!

Chopping quality is extremely important for silage and also digestion of the feed. Sharp knives and a precisely adjusted shearbar guarantee a clean cut and even crop flow. Four intake and precompression rollers – two upper and two lower rollers – compress the crop densely and transport it to the chopping cylinder. The latest generation of metal detectors is located in the lower front roller. The gearbox provides for 6 different chop lengths. The changeover between two lengths in each range can be done at the touch of a button. The impressive CLAAS chopping cylinder on all JAGUAR models is a full 29.5" wide with 24 knives in V-formation gives 28,800 cuts per minute. The shearbar is adjusted to the knives without tools. The result is ease of maintenance, with contact adjustment and a power saving cut, plus excellent forage quality.

The high quality of corn forage produced by the JAGUAR is derived from the CLAAS corn cracker. Two saw toothed rollers run at different speeds with 20% difference to open up virtually every kernel. This means good quality silage that is easily digested.

BECAUSE YOUR DAY DOESN'T START AT 9:00 AM...

OURS DOESN'T EITHER

When you work the land, you don't have the luxury of working 9 to 5. You need to be available all day, every day...and if your equipment breaks down, you need it fixed now, not tommorrow at 3:00.

Deer Creek understands the way you work. That's why we're here when you need us with parts and service 24 hours a day, 7 days a week. Where you buy a product is often as important as what you buy!

Put us to the test! Service when you need it.

Super Boom™ is best

When you're looking for a skid-steer, there's the challengers and then there's the champ. Well say hello to the undisputed champ in the all-new Model LX885 New Holland Super Boom™ skid-steer loader.

It has a 60-horsepower, turbocharged diesel engine for the ultimate in power. Its massive 2,200-lb. operating load picks up where all others leave off. Of course, it has the features you expect from New Holland, such as the best speed, stability, visibility, lift height and dump reach in the industry. Add that to the Pick Up 'n Go™ universal attachment system and there's nothing it can't handle.

Stop by today and see for yourself why no other skid-steer can compare.

NEW HOLLAND

Why choose a New Holland skid-steer loader?

- Superior visibility
- Greater bucket & lift capacity
- Unbeatable stability
- The most attachments
- Faster speeds
- Unmated dependability
- Superior dump height & reach

Hog Equipment Distributor

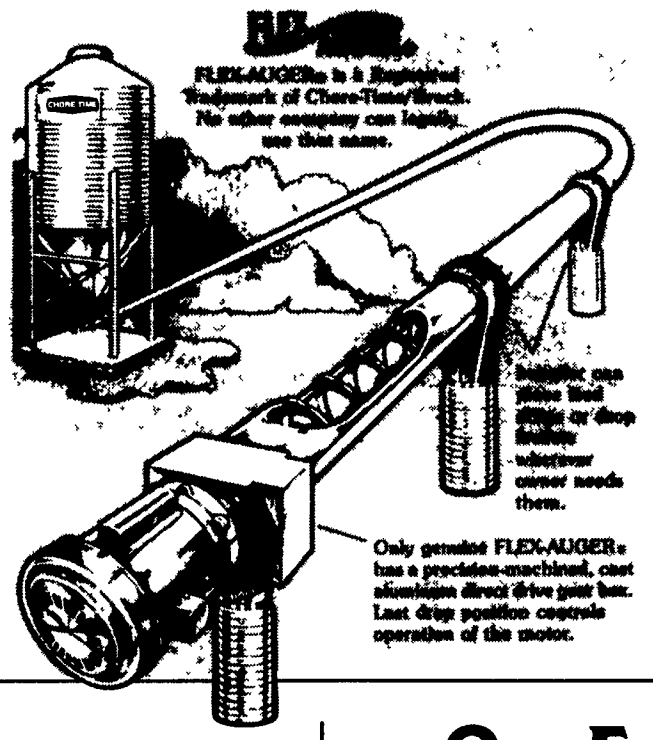
Chore-Time FLEX-AUGER®: the one and only

Don't be fooled. Chore-Time's FLEX-AUGER® Feed Delivery System has built a reputation as "The best way ever devised to deliver feed". It's so good, in fact, that several competitors are trying to imitate it.

Cheap Imitations. While it may be that imitation is "the sincerest form of flattery", we feel sorry for producers who call us about problems with what they thought was FLEX-AUGER®. Turns out it was a substitute somebody sold them real cheap when they thought they were buying genuine FLEX-AUGER®.

No Comparison. Others who have recently started trying to make a flexible auger aren't having much luck making a product as good as FLEX-AUGER®. Producers who buy these imitations have also come to this realization. This hardly comes as a surprise.



FLEX-AUGER® is a Registered Trademark of Chore-Time/Brock. No other company can legally use this name.
Only genuine FLEX-AUGER® has a precision-machined, cast aluminum direct drive gear box. Last drip position controls operation of the motor.

After all, we invented the idea of coreless, flexible auger 30 years ago. And, we've continued to improve it with important innovations and refinements nearly every year since to give you better value for your hard-earned dollar. Unfortunately imitators often miss the finer points of a product's successful performance - points only obtained through years of design and manufacturing experience.

Genuine Advantages. So, if you want all the advantages that only genuine FLEX-AUGER® can give you: flawless feed conveying, extreme auger durability, wear-resistant and ultraviolet-resistant tube, direct-drive power unit (not belts), and Chore-Time's iron-clad "no fooling" warranty - make sure you get the one with the genuine FLEX-AUGER® logo right on the tube.

Buy The Best. Get The Best.

FARM TIRES
THE LEADER IN THE FIELD

Maryland Commodity Classic Set

EDGEWOOD, Md. — Dennis Avery says: "Thanks to high-yield farming, the world hasn't had to expand its farmlands since the end of World War II, despite a redoubled population."

Dennis Avery says: "Someday, when advances in biotechnology allow us to rely less heavily on pesticides, historians will look back and snicker at the hysteria over these chemicals that helped cut cancer risks and saved room on the planet for wildlife."

Dennis Avery says: "I have many friends involved in contract production of poultry and several friends involved in contract hog farming. They see it as a more efficient way to produce meat. Confinement hogs generally use 25 percent less feed per pound of meat than outdoor hogs. They also produce more pounds of meat per person-year of effort."

Dennis Avery is coming to Maryland. The outspoken director of global food issues for the Hudson Institute will headline a panel of speakers at Maryland's first Commodity Classic Thursday, July 22, at the Queen Anne's County 4-H Park near Centreville.

The event, patterned after the joint annual meeting of the National Co n Growers and American Soybean Associations, is an extension of the annual meeting here of members of the Maryland Grain Producers Association (MGPA) who have invited the state's soybean growers, under the aegis of the Maryland Soybean Board, to join them.

Avery, who lives in Churchville, Va., is an internationally known expert on the dynamic changes taking place in the world's ability to feed itself and still protect environmental resources, He is especially noted for his analyses of trends in food demand, agricultural productivity and global farm competition.

For nearly a decade, he was the senior ag analyst in the U.S. Department of State. He also has done policy analysis for the USDA and served on the staff of President Johnson's National Advisory Commission on Food and Fiber.

He travels about 200,000 miles a year to tell audiences worldwide that farmers are the true hope for the world's environment in the future. He is the author of "Saving the Planet with Pesticides and Plastics: The Environmental Triumph of High-Yield Agriculture."

He is not known for his soft touch. A frequent critic of federal food, ag and environmental policy, listeners often describe his withering attacks on those policies as "shock treatment."

Avery's presentation at the Commodity Classic will wrap up a business and educational season which will get under way at 1 p.m. and will focus on the impact of biotechnology and nutrient management on ag production and marketing. Other speakers will be Erick Erickson of the U.S. Grains Council, Royden Powell of the Maryland Department of Agriculture and Dane Bauer of the Maryland Department of the Environment.

The trade show — and gates to the 4-H Park — will open at 11 a.m. The MGPA's traditional annual crab feast and chicken barbecue will begin at 4 p.m. Admission is $10 per person at the gate.

Summer Safety

NEW HAVEN, Conn. — As the summer season approaches, Partners For A Safer Community Program would like to remind the public to use common-sense agricultural and recreational safety practices.

"Summer is an active time around the farm, and therefore a hazardous time for farmers, their families, and visitors," said Julie Sessions, Partners For A Safer Community project director. "The high numbers of serious agriculture-related injuries and fatalities are traumatic, costly, and preventable."

A 1997 study shows that nearly 75 percent of all occupational injuries among farm workers ages 10 to 19 years occur during the months of June, July and August. Another study suggests that 50 percent of fatal injuries to children ages 6 to 17 years living in rural areas occur during summer.

"The causes run the gamut," said Sessions, "from machinery to ATVs to animals to swimming ponds—prevention comes through awareness. Please take that extra second to think about safe actions and reactions."

To find out more about Partners For A Safer Community activities in your area, contact Julie Sessions at 141 Canner St., 3rd Flr., New Haven CT 06511 or by email at jasess@aol.com.

Hampshire, Shropshire Jacpot Show

WESTMINSTER, Md. — The Maryland Hampshire Sheep Association and the Penn Mar Shropshire Association have announced the first joint Hampshire-Shropshire Market Lamb Jackpot Show intended to promote these breeds as producers of outstanding market lambs and to create interest in these breeds.

The Jackpot Show will be held Sunday, June 11, at the Carroll County Ag Center in Westminster.

Judging will begin at 3 p.m. with entries accepted up to weigh-in time at 2 p.m.

There will also be a covered dish picnic starting at 1 p.m. and a showmanship clinic between the weigh-in and the start of the show.

This show is open to all members of 4-H or FFA without regard to state of residence and will be conducted according to the following rules:

1. All exhibitors must belong to 4-H or FFA.

2. No limit on number of entries per exhibitor.

3. 65-pound minimum weight with 5 pound tolerance; no maximum.

4. All entries must be sired by registered Hampshire or Shropshire rams. Registry number must be provided on entry.

5. All entries must be out of registered Hampshire or Shropshire ewes. Registry number must be provided on entry.

6. All lambs must have approved Maryland or interstate health papers.

7. Wether and ewe lambs will be shown in four classes divided by weight. No rams will be shown

8. Lambs must carry all lamb's teeth.

9. Animals must be owned by the exhibitor.

10. Exhibitors will be required to remove bedding and manure from the fair grounds.

11. Entry fee (must accompany entry), $10 per head for members of Maryland Hampshire Sheep Association, $20 per head for non-members.

12. Weigh-in time: 2 p.m.

13. Show time: 3 p.m.

14. Release: immediately after selection of champion.

15. Prizes: grand champion: $100; reserve champion: $50; and trophies for first place in each weight division.

Entry in this event will qualify Hampshire exhibitors for showing up to five lambs in the Hampshire Market Lamb Classes at the Maryland State Fair without paying the $10 per head entry fee.

For information, contact Robert Dinsmore, (301) 371-4483 or Sam Mullen (301) 898-7796.

DMI Makes Tillage Tool More Versatile

GOODFIELD, Ill. — DMI, Inc. has added a pull hitch and disc leveler to the options available for the ecolo-til 2500 (an already multi-functional, precision tillage tool designed to boost yields by improving soil tilth while allowing the farmer to customize the amount of residue left on top of the soil).

With these improvements, DMI's ecolo-til 2500 will provide farmers with even more tillage options and flexibility, leading to improved productivity.

The new pull hitch converts the 3-point hitch to a pull-type configuration for those farmers who desire the flexibility and technology of the ecolo-til 2500 but prefer a pull-type configuration. The new pull hitch is available for 5, 6, 7, 8 and 9 shank ecolo-til 2500 models and can be equipped with either dual 11L or single 12.5L tires.

DMI has once again risen to meet farmers' soil management needs by expanding its line of disc levelers to fit 3, 5, 7 and 9 shank ecolo-til 2500 models on 30 inch centers. The disc leveler builds berms over the shank paths which settle level prior to secondary tillage and planting.

Mowers With Optional Conditioners Speed Drying Time

COLUMBUS, Ind. — Claas of America introduces a new line of disc mower conditioners to complete its range of Disco disc mowers.

The Disco 260C and 300C are 3-point mounted versions providing cutting widths of 8-foot 6-inch and 9-foot 9-inch, respectively. A trailed version of the Disco mower conditioner is available in the new Disco 3000TC with a cutting width of 9-foot 9-inches.

All models are equipped with a tine conditioner designed to break down the natural wax coating on plant stems, which decreases drying time and reduces weather risk.

The mower condition's heavy-duty design features a rotor mounted on strong pillar block bearings, drive shaft protection, and offset V-shape steel rotor tines mounted on rubber blocks to absorb shock and protect the tines from foreign bodies. In addition, the resilient tines can be turned 180-degrees for either gentle or aggressive conditioning, depending on harvest conditions. The conditioner is adjustable to match crop conditions and provides a loose, airy swath.

The Disco 260C and 300C can be folded into narrow transport widths with a single hydraulic tractor outlet. A swivel gear box width on the Disco 3000TC provides a maximum cutting capacity by allowing 90 percent turns without stress to the driveline. The Disco 3000TC converts from its working configuration to a transport width of 10 inches in seconds.

Squealers® Deliver Economy, Performance

SELMA, Ala. — Economy, performance, and ruggedness are combined in the new 6-feet wide Bush Hog SQ-720 Squealers®.

Economy is delivered through economical pricing designed to make rugged Bush Hog cutters easy to afford.

Rugged features that will stand up to years of use deliver superior performance. They include 6-inch wide, 1/2-inch thick vertical masts; 10-gauge side bands and decks; flip-up shields; a choice of molded rubber or laminated tail wheel tires; and heavy-duty gearboxes.

Tower Silo Safety Week July 12-18

LAFAYETTE, Ind. — July 12 through July 18 has been designated "Tower Silo Safety Week" by the tower silo manufacturers and suppliers in your area.

To determine the condition of your tower silo, you may obtain a free safety checklist from your local silo company or from the International Silo Association.

On-site safety checks may be arranged with your local silo company.

For more information, contact the International Silo Association, P.O. Box 560, Lafayette, IN 47902-0560.

Kuhn Introduces Mower Conditioner

VERNON, N.Y. — A new model disc mower conditioner, the FC 302, has been added to the FC disc mower conditioner line from Kuhn Farm Machinery, Inc., Vernon, New York USA, and Kuhn S.A., Saverne, France.

The FC 302 replaces the FC 300 and features newly designed sheet metal, larger standard sized tires and rims, and easy crank handle adjustment of suspension.

The FC 302 retains the proven Kuhn cutterbar that features the Protectadrive™ cutterbar protection system. This system normally protects the cutterbar if an obstruction is hit in the field.

The FC 302 is available with two hitches, a straight drawbar hitch for the economy or for unsurpassed maneuverability the Gyrodine™ swivel hitch. There is also a choice of conditioning with either Kuhn's exclusive Finger/Combo conditioner or roll type conditioning.

Kuhn offers 17 disc mower conditioner models with widths from 6-feet 7-inches to 16-feet.

Deere Enhances Leadership In Utility Vehicle Market

RICHMOND, Va. — In response to explosive demand for its Gator® line of utility vehicles, John Deere's Worldwide Commercial & Consumer Equipment Division announced that it will build a new $30 million, 300,000-square-foot utility vehicle complex in southeast Virginia's James City County.

Expected to employ more than 300 people when fully operational, the facility will include engineering and design for new products, manufacturing, sales and marketing functions.

The current line of Gators includes both two- and four-wheel drive, gas and diesel utility vehicles, and Turf Gator and Trail Gator specialty vehicles for use by farmers, outdoor enthusiasts, golf course managers and commercial grounds care operators. Specially outfitted Gators can be seen at airports, on professional sports fields, at construction sites and even in the Macy's Thanksgiving Day Parade.

John Deere is committed to aggressive expansion of its utility vehicle market as part of the Division's overall growth strategy, according to Mark Rostvold, John Deere senior vice president.

"This investment is a signal to our customers that John Deere is committed to the utility vehicle business and to extending our leadership position," Rostvold said.

"One of our first initiatives is to introduce a new, larger and more powerful Gator that will appeal to new markets. And while we're especially proud of our existing line, we're also looking at developing additional new utility vehicle products that will meet our objective of providing versatile and rugged machines that meet the John Deere standard of quality," he said.

John Deere's Worldwide Commercial & Consumer Equipment Division announced that it will build a new $30 million, 300,000-square-foot utility vehicle complex in southeast Virginia's James City County.

David Larson, vehicle group manager, said that the company intends to break ground for the new complex within the next few weeks, with the plant on line by summer of 2000. Larson believes that the future for the John Deere utility vehicle line is limitless.

"While there are a number of all-terrain and utility vehicles on the market, the John Deere Gators are in a class by themselves," Larson said. "The new plant will allow us to meet current and future demand for Gators and to design and manufacture new vehicle lines to respond to the needs of our customers," he said.

In addition to manufacturing, the complex will include a major design and engineering component and the sales and marketing group.

"In building several new plants over the last several years, including facilities for the John Deere golf and turf lines and skid steer products, we've learned that assembling the entire team in one location — from engineering to production to marketing — is the most effective way of guaranteeing the highest quality and most rapid response to our customers' requirements," Rostvold said. "We're putting those lessons into effect once again with the new utility vehicle complex. Our customers can count on John Deere to deliver," he said.

Fan Improves Baler Performance

RACINE Wis. — Case IH large square balers feature the most powerful self-contained hydraulic-powered fan in the industry. The fan is designed to ensure proper function of the knotting system regardless of operating conditions.

"Good knots are critical when we're talking about large, high-density square bales," said John Buse, Case marketing manager for livestock production and dairy equipment. "If one or more knots fail, it becomes difficult or impossible to handle the bale. You lost time and product.

"The Case IH fan offers the equivalent of a 90 mph blast of air, specially targeted to keep the bale knotting area clean," he said. "Think about traveling in a car at 90 mph, and then putting your hand outside the window. That force will dislodge even the most stubborn debris that might otherwise interfere with the knotting system, causing loose knots and malfunctions."

Unlike most other knotter cleaning systems, the Case IH fan is powered by a self-contained 8.5 gallon-per-minute hydraulic pump.

"Most other systems use squirrel cage fans, electric fans and even air compressors," said Buse. "However, the Case IH system is especially effective in providing a high velocity air flow to all outlets that is even and focused."

The Case IH fan system uses two-inch round nozzles to direct air at each knotting mechanism. The blower provides air flow from two sides to dislodge stubborn debris.

"We acknowledge that baling is demanding and problems can occur even with the best square balers," Buse said. "But customers will find it easier to pinpoint and solve problems in a clean system with good visibility."

Strong, solid knots are essential to maintain the integrity of high-density, large square bales. The Case IH fan provides a constant, 90 mph blast of air targeted at each of the knotting mechanisms to eliminate stubborn debris.

THINK CONCRETE WHEN PLANNING YOUR FEED STORAGE!!

"HOW WILL YOU BE STORING YOUR VALUABLE FORAGES AND GRAINS IN THE 21ST CENTURY?

It's not too early to begin planning your storage and feeding systems for the year 2000 and beyond.

As margins narrow, dairymen need to invest in efficiency; this can have as great an influence on PROFIT as milk price changes.

Protect your valuable feed's from the elements... increase the efficiency of your feeds, your animals, and your labor.

WARNING, ALL SILO OWNERS

Check your silo now for rotten staves. If you have been using your silo for 10 to 15 years for either corn silage or haylage, it is time to SHOTCRETE

RESURFACES INTERIORS:
- Coats the silo's interior
- Protects feed in storage
- Durable, tough, acid-resistant
- Increase useful life
- Economical

Before . . . The silo's interior with plaster damaged and stave exposed

After . . . The surface is reconditioned, and a new, thick tough surface will protect stored feed.

REPAIRS HOLES:
- Repairs even large holes
- Up to twice the strength of the original stave
- Rapid application
- Durable surface

Before . . . A hole is worn completely through the silo wall

After . . . With the hole repaired by ShotCrete and a new surface applied, the silo is ready for years of use

EXTENDS USEFUL LIFE:
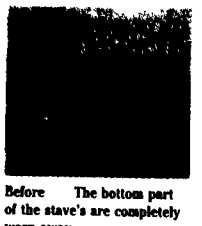
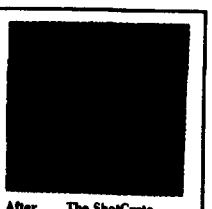
- Support for old foundations
- Special repairs can be made quickly and economically
- Little or no forming needed
- Stronger than the original



Before . . . The bottom part of the stave's are completely worn away



After . . . The ShotCrete System repairs and replaces the missing structure.

Attention

Dairy, Swine & Poultry Producers!

New Products Now Available...

With the addition of our new soybean processing facility, we now offer these products to meet your nutritional needs Manufacturing these products ourselves allows us to utilize locally grown soybeans and support our local agricultural community!

GOLDEN PRO 46 XP

This natural, mechanically extruded and expelled soybean product is experiencing great acceptance with local dairymen. A course golden colored meal with a 6% fat content, Golden Pro 46 XP is extremely palatable Golden Pro 46 XP is a natural way to bring the value of high by-pass protein into diets that require a lower fat level

GOLDEN MEAL 40

An 18 percent fat content along with a 40 percent crude protein makes this mechanically extruded meal product a valuable component in a variety of rations Full fat content gives you a high level of digestible energy, while high temperature extruding ruptures the oil cells for better nutritional absorbtions

CRUDE SOYBEAN OIL

A product of Keystone's expelling process, this oil can be used in a wide variety of on farm applications A natural alternative to animal fats, this oil provides needed energy in various rations.

To make these products available, and to help you utilize your home raised soybeans Keystone Mills announces its

Soybean Exchange Program

As manufacturers and distributers of Golden Pro 46 XP and Golden Meal 40, we are anxious for you to try our products. We are offering a soybean exchange program featuring these quality nutritional products.

SWEETCAKE 16NU

FEED SUPPLEMENT BLOCKS FOR THE LIVESTOCK INDUSTRY

• High Natural Protein • No Urea • Fat Enhanced
• Balanced Supplementation • Safe For All Livestock Classes

Sweetcake Advantages

- Aids in making the best use of your available forage
- Promotes a more even herd consumption, with 24-hour availability to all cattle
- Reduces labor to save you money and give you more time to make important management decisions
- Supplies much-needed vitamins and minerals that forage lacks to help your cattle perform to their genetic potential
- Supplies fat in most formulations to enhance energy intake

For Dairy

- Replacement heifers that grow out soundly and economically
- Body condition on dry cows so they can return to lactation, producing at the maximum potential
- Healthier herds, with essential trace minerals that help prevent metritis, retained placenta and other health problems
- Prompt re-breeding, thanks to essential nutrients

For Beef

- Stronger, healthier calves at birth
- Heavier Calves at weaning
- Cows that cycle better for improved conception rates
- Cows that milk better to raise a better calf

Award-Winning Alfalfa Grower Understands Vital Role Of Good Workers

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

NAZARETH (Northampton Co) — Bob Oswald admits there is no secret to growing prize winning alfalfa

Simply put, Oswald surrounds himself with good employees, trusts the work of his crop assistant, takes care of his fertile soil, and carefully times the cutting and drying of his crop

"There's no secret to doing this," he told Lancaster Farming during a visit his farm on a bright, crisp autumn day last year

A couple of months before, Oswald picked up the grand champion ribbon for the alfalfa later cutting division, field-dried only category, from the annual hay show conducted at Ag Progress Days in Rockspring

Oswald narrows his management down to a few time-tested strategies that can almost guarantee success making the most of good, well-drained soils; soil testing regularly, and cutting the alfalfa on time and getting it stored when ready

"I do it right or I don't do it," he said. "I love what I'm doing and that makes me care."

Oswald manages 700 acres of corn, 400 acres of soybeans, 120 acres of alfalfa hay, and 75 acres of wheat on about 1,295 acres for his dairy enter
